

11. Chapter 11: Functions & Graphical Modeling - A Constructivist Mathematical Perspective

11.1 The Constructivist Mathematical Perspective

- 11.1.1 Constructivism as a Philosophy of Mathematics
 - 11.1.1.1 Constructivism is a philosophical position that mathematics is not discovered but constructed by humans. It emphasizes the role of human experience and intuition in the development of mathematical concepts.
 - 11.1.1.2 Constructivism is a process-oriented view of mathematics. It focuses on the ways in which mathematical concepts are developed and refined through human activity. It is not a static body of knowledge, but a dynamic process of discovery.
 - 11.1.1.3 Constructivism is a social and cultural activity. It is not just an individual pursuit, but a collective one. It involves the sharing of ideas and the building of a community of learners.

11.2 The Role of the Teacher

- 11.2.1 The Teacher as a Facilitator
 - 11.2.1.1 The teacher's role is to create a supportive environment for learning. This involves providing resources, setting expectations, and encouraging students to take ownership of their learning.
 - 11.2.1.2 The teacher should act as a guide, not a director. They should provide support and feedback, but allow students to explore and discover mathematical concepts on their own.
 - 11.2.1.3 The teacher should encourage students to work in groups and share their ideas. This helps to build a sense of community and allows students to learn from each other.
- 11.2.2 The Teacher as a Co-Learner
 - 11.2.2.1 The teacher should also be a learner. They should be open to new ideas and willing to learn from their students. This helps to create a more collaborative and dynamic learning environment.
 - 11.2.2.2 The teacher should reflect on their own practice and seek to improve it. This involves being open to feedback and willing to try new approaches.

11.3 The Role of the Student

- 11.3.1 The Student as an Active Participant
 - 11.3.1.1 The student should be an active participant in their learning. They should be encouraged to ask questions, make conjectures, and test their ideas.
 - 11.3.1.2 The student should be encouraged to work in groups and share their ideas. This helps to build a sense of community and allows students to learn from each other.
- 11.3.2 The Student as a Problem Solver
 - 11.3.2.1 The student should be encouraged to solve problems on their own. This helps to build their confidence and allows them to develop their problem-solving skills.
 - 11.3.2.2 The student should be encouraged to reflect on their problem-solving process. This helps them to identify their strengths and weaknesses and to improve their problem-solving skills.

11.4 The Role of the Curriculum

- 11.4.1 The Curriculum as a Guide
 - 11.4.1.1 The curriculum should provide a guide for learning. It should outline the key concepts and skills that students should learn.
 - 11.4.1.2 The curriculum should be flexible enough to allow teachers to adapt it to their own classrooms. This helps to ensure that the curriculum is relevant and meaningful for all students.
- 11.4.2 The Curriculum as a Challenge
 - 11.4.2.1 The curriculum should provide a challenge for students. It should include problems and tasks that require critical thinking and problem-solving skills.
 - 11.4.2.2 The curriculum should be designed to build on students' prior knowledge and skills. This helps to ensure that the curriculum is accessible and meaningful for all students.
