What Glasses Are You Wearing?

Have you ever tried to guess or imagine? They change the way things are, don't they? Well, sometimes our brains see your glasses, and we can get tripped about the way things really are. Here are some common "glasses" our brains can wear, and the ways they can take up our things differently.

Seeing Things the Positive

When your brain doesn't "trust" the good stuff!

It says to you, "Well, you might think it's good today."

If you get a compliment, you might think "Oh, how kind of you to say that because that's really true!"

Mind Reading

These glasses make you think you should guess what others are thinking. It's a game of hide-it, even when it's something together, you might think "They are talking about me and laughing about my presentation!"

Conversations

These glasses make you think that when you're in a group, you should guess what others are thinking. If you talk or hear what others say, you might think "Oh, how kind of you to say that because that's really true!"

Black and White Thinking

When your brain thinks only in extremes of "all or nothing". If you forget something for school, you might think "That's it, the whole day is ruined!"

Overgeneralization

Things only "because it's true in my conclusion". If you make a mistake, you might think "I messed up everything!"

Personalization

When you think that everything is about you. If your mom comes home from work, you might think "She must be angry because I didn't clean my room and homework wasn't done!"
