Greening The Global Economy Boston Review S:

Greening the Global Economy Robert Pollin, 2015-11-20 A program for building a global clean energy economy while expanding job opportunities and economic well being In order to control climate change the International Panel on Climate Change IPCC estimates that greenhouse gas emissions will need to fall by about forty percent by 2030 Achieving the target goals will be highly challenging Yet in Greening the Global Economy economist Robert Pollin shows that they are attainable through steady large scale investments totaling about 1.5 percent of global GDP on an annual basis in both energy efficiency and clean renewable energy sources Not only that Pollin argues that with the right investments these efforts will expand employment and drive economic growth Drawing on years of research Pollin explores all aspects of the problem how much energy will be needed in a range of industrialized and developing economies what efficiency targets should be and what kinds of industrial policy will maximize investment and support private and public partnerships in green growth so that a clean energy transformation can unfold without broad subsidies All too frequently inaction on climate change is blamed on its potential harm to the economy Pollin shows greening the economy is not only possible but necessary global economic growth depends on it Handbook on the Economics of Climate Change Graciela Chichilnisky, Armon Rezai, 2020-06-26 This timely

Handbook recognises the emergence of climate change as the defining topic of our time With public climate discourse growing more urgent every year this Handbook brings together international experts from different economic disciplines to answer critical climate policy questions , The Case for the Green New Deal Ann Pettifor, 2020-09-15 What is the Green New Deal and how can we afford it To protect the future of life on earth we need to do more than just reimagine the economy we have to change everything One of the seminal thinkers of the program that helped ignite the US Green New Deal campaign Ann Pettifor explains how we can afford what we can do and what we need to do before it is too late The Case for the Green New Deal argues that economic change is wholly possible based on the understanding that finance the economy and the ecosystem are all tightly bound together The GND demands total decarbonization and a commitment to an economy based on fairness and social justice It proposes a radical new understanding of the international monetary system Pettifor offers a roadmap for financial reform both nationally and globally taking the economy back from the 1% This is a radical urgent manifesto that we must act on now OECD Public Governance Reviews Harnessing Public

The Limits of the Green Economy Anneleen Kenis, Matthias Lievens, 2015-03-24 Projecting win win situations new economic opportunities green growth and innovative partnerships the green economy discourse has quickly gained centre stage in international environmental governance and policymaking Its underlying message is attractive and optimistic if the market can become the tool for tackling climate change and other major ecological crises the fight against these crises can also be the royal road to solving the problems of the market But how green is the green economy And how social or democratic can it be This book examines how the emergence of this new discourse has fundamentally modified the terms of the environmental debate Interpreting the rise of green economy discourse as an attempt to re invent capitalism it unravels the different dimensions of the green economy and its limits from pricing carbon to emissions trading from sustainable consumption to technological innovation The book uses the innovative concept of post politics to provide a critical perspective on the way green economy discourse represents nature and society and their interaction and forecloses the imagination of alternative socio ecological possibilities As a way of repoliticising the debate the book advocates the construction of new political faultlines based on the demands for climate justice and democratic commons This book will be of interest to students and scholars of environmental politics political ecology human geography human ecology political theory philosophy and political economy Includes a foreword written by Erik Swyngedouw Professor of Geography Manchester University

China's Low-Carbon Energy Relations with Emerging Markets Ryan McLean, 2025-09-30 This book explores China's contemporary energy relations with emerging markets Through the prisms of global low carbon transition and power sector development Ryan McLean utilises the multi level perspective to build upon existing understandings of the Chinese renewables revolution from a top down interpretation McLean presents an in depth analysis of the external ramifications of China's solar and wind dominance across the Global South in the areas of green technological trade project construction and regime financing This research provides a convincing explanation for why Chinese coal incumbents have been proactive overseas in spite of the country's clean energy dominance and Beijing's climate commitments Finally the book argues that China's low carbon prowess has longer term significance for the Global South and in addition contributes to the rising debates over the geopolitics of renewable transition in a complex multipolar world This volume will be of great interest to students and scholars of Chinese energy policy and foreign relations energy markets in the Global South international politics and the wider global energy transition field

Busting the Bankers' Club Gerald Epstein, 2025-01-07 An eye opening account of the failures of our financial system the sources of its staying power and the path to meaningful economic reform Bankers brought the global economic system to its knees in 2007 and nearly did the same in 2020 Both times the US government bailed out the banks and left them in control How can we end this cycle of trillion dollar bailouts and make finance work for the rest of us Busting the Bankers Club confronts the powerful people and institutions that benefit from our broken financial system and the struggle to create an alternative Drawing from decades of research on the history economics and politics of banking economist Gerald Epstein shows that any meaningful reform will require breaking up this club of politicians economists lawyers and CEOs who sustain the status quo Thankfully there are thousands of activists experts and public officials who are working to do just that Clear eyed and hopeful Busting the Bankers Club centers the individuals and groups fighting for a financial system that will better serve the needs of the marginalized and support important transitions to a greener fairer economy

Mathews, 2014-12-17 As China India and other industrializing giants grow they are confronted with an inconvenient truth They cannot rely on the conventions of capitalism as we know them today Western industrialism has achieved miracles promoting unprecedented levels of prosperity and raising hundreds of millions out of poverty Yet if allowed to proceed unencumbered this paradigm will do irreversible harm to the planet By necessity a new approach to environmentally conscious development is already emerging in the East with China leading the way Positioning its argument against zero growth advocates and free market environmentalists Greening of Capitalism charts this transformation and sketches out a framework for more sustainable capitalism State mandated changes in energy use as opposed to carbon taxes a circular flow of resources as opposed to emissions standards and the introduction of new financial instruments that support green growth are cornerstones of China's framework John A Mathews argues that these tenets will be emulated around the world first in India and Brazil In light of this emerging shift Mathews considers core debates over national security international relations and economic policy ultimately addressing the question of whether these measures will be far reaching or timely enough to prevent further damage Small, Gritty, and Green Catherine Tumber, 2011-11-10 How small to midsize Rust Belt cities can play a crucial role in a low carbon sustainable and relocalized future America's once vibrant small to midsize cities Syracuse Worcester Akron Flint Rockford and others increasingly resemble urban wastelands Gutted by deindustrialization outsourcing and middle class flight disproportionately devastated by metro freeway systems that laid waste to the urban fabric and displaced the working poor small industrial cities seem to be part of America's past not its future And yet Catherine Tumber argues in this provocative book America's gritty Rust Belt cities could play a central role in a greener low carbon relocalized future As we wean ourselves from fossil fuels and realize the environmental costs of suburban sprawl we will see that small cities offer many assets for sustainable living not shared by their big city or small town counterparts including population density and nearby fertile farmland available for new environmentally friendly uses Tumber traveled to twenty five cities in the Northeast and Midwest from Buffalo to Peoria to Detroit to Rochester interviewing planners city officials and activists and weaving their stories into this exploration of small scale urbanism Smaller cities can be a critical part of a sustainable future and a productive green economy Small Gritty and Green will help us develop the moral and political imagination we need to realize this
