

Glory Movie Questions

1. How does the attitude of Colonel Robert Gould Shaw toward African-Americans change and why?

Colonel Shaw's attitude toward African-Americans changes over the course of the movie. At first, he is a white supremacist and believes that African-Americans are inferior to white people. However, as he spends more time with the 54th Massachusetts Infantry, he begins to see them as individuals and not just as a race. He becomes more accepting of them and eventually treats them as equals.

2. What differences exist among the black soldiers who make up the 54th Massachusetts Infantry? What does this tell you about the different experiences of blacks in 19th-century America? What about their regions of origin, former status (enslaved), and educational background?

The 54th Massachusetts Infantry was a diverse group of men. They came from different regions of the United States and had different backgrounds. Some were former slaves, while others were free men. This diversity reflects the different experiences of African-Americans in 19th-century America.

3. What attitudes did white soldiers have about the 54th? Did these attitudes change and why?

At first, the white soldiers in the 54th were prejudiced against the African-American soldiers. They believed that they were inferior and that they were not worthy of being soldiers. However, as they spent more time with the 54th, their attitudes began to change. They realized that the African-American soldiers were brave and capable, and they began to respect them more.

4. Were blacks treated equally to whites in the Union army? Explain.

No, African-Americans were not treated equally to whites in the Union army. They were paid less than white soldiers and were often given the most dangerous and difficult jobs. However, they were also given the same training and equipment as white soldiers, which helped them to become more skilled and confident.

5. What is significant about Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse to surrender?

Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse to surrender is significant because it shows that he was willing to die for his men. He knew that the odds were against them, but he refused to give up. This decision inspired the men of the 54th and showed the world that African-Americans were capable of being brave and heroic.

6. Did that incident end as you expected? What feelings?/thoughts come over you still, still?

The incident ended as I expected. The 54th was defeated, but they were not captured. They were allowed to march back to their camp with their flags and weapons. This was a great victory for them and for the Union. It showed that they were capable of fighting and winning, even when the odds were against them.
