Liberty's Dilemma America Two Nations Dependent/independent:

Liberty's Dilemma Seymour W. Itzkoff, 2014 Liberty's Dilemma is a diagnostic analysis of the falling away in the United States from the founders' vision of individual liberty and freedom of association. The founders never could have envisioned the enormous expansion of industrial and scientific power we have experienced nor the national and international conflicts. Never could they have predicted the massive growth in power of the federal government, the kind of power they fought against in our initial struggle for independence and liberty. One significant consequence of these events for our future is the massive dependency of large portions of our present population and the consequent debilitating redistribution of the productive wealth of the independent classes. This growth of a seemingly permanent dependent class has gone largely unexplained. Liberty's Dilemma points to the declining intellectual capital in large portions of our society as cause. This is reflected in the disintegration of family life, lowering educational achievement levels, and the flight of our industrial and technological base. Until our leadership awakens to this fundamental issue of our intellectual capital deficits and their cause, the fundamental vision of liberty that was brought into reality by our Constitutional founders will have forever slipped beyond our political reach. The Congregationalist and Herald of Gospel Liberty, 1932

Main Themes in the Debate Over Property

Rights James W. Ely, 1997 When BBC producer Jan Harding arrives at the small idyllic Suffolk village to begin production of the Palm Sunday broadcast of Songs of Praise, a television program featuring hymns sung by real congregations, she finds out that the vicar Clive Linton is hopelessly absent-minded and not impressed that the top BBC religious program chose to come to his church. His practical wife Helen, however, gets on well with the television team, perhaps a little too well, where the charming enigmatic rigger Michael is concerned. Soon the whole village gets involved. Bunty Maddocks, queen of every local committee, plots to get around the ban on church flowers during Lent. Retired, lonely accountant Jack Diggins finds purpose, faith, and friendship as he plans tickets and seating. Teenage soloist Anna surprises herself with her success and obstructive Charles, chairman of the Parish Council, resents the enthusiasm of other villagers, including his wife Betty. This delightful story, full of memorable characters and inspiring music, will make you laugh and cry and gives a fascinating insight into the making of a major television broadcast. Very readable. Warm and witty. Woman's Weekly. A gripping story which touches some very basic emotions. Captures wonderfully the two extremes of village life. This is very powerful stuff. Barbara Erskine. Very moving. Very powerful intimate moments. I really did enjoy it. Lynn Parson. BBC Radio 2. The characters and situations were so good that I got lost in the book. All I can say is well done. Pam. The Lincolnshire Echo.
