Gone Girls, 1684-1901 Nora Gilbert,2023-06-03 In Gone Girls 1684 1901 Nora Gilbert argues that the persistent trope of female characters running away from some iteration of home played a far more influential role in the histories of both the rise of the novel and the rise of modern feminism than previous accounts have acknowledged For as much as the eighteenth and nineteenth century British novel may have worked to establish the private middle class domestic sphere as the rightful and sole locus of female authority in the ways that prior critics have outlined it was also continually showing its readers female characters who refused to buy into such an agenda refusals which resulted strikingly often in those characters physical flights from home The steady current of female flight coursing through this body of literature serves as a powerful counterpoint to the ideals of feminine modesty and happy homemaking it was expected officially to endorse and challenges some of novel studies most accepted assumptions Just as the MeToo movement has used the tool of repeated aggregated storytelling to take a stand against contemporary rape culture Gone Girls 1684 1901 identifies and amplifies a recurrent strand of eighteenth and nineteenth century British storytelling that served both to emphasize the prevalence of gendered injustices throughout the period and to narrativize potential ways and means for readers facing such injustices to rebel resist and get out

The Neoliberal Imagination in Contemporary Literature Tammy Amiel Houser, 2024-08-06 This book examines the relationship between empathy and neoliberalism as it unfolded in the aftermath of the 2008 financial crisis and through the turbulent 2010s Via close readings of contemporary novels as well as various non-fictional texts it traces the changing approaches to empathy in the post-financial crisis imagination highlighting a crucial re-conceptualization of empathy as a boundaryless force untethered to local or social circumstance This reconceptualization implicitly aligns empathy with the neoliberal ethos of globalism and distances it from the traditional notion of sympathy Via complex dialogue with the novelistic tradition of sympathy contemporary novelists highlight the problematics of boundaryless empathy while exploring ways to resist neoliberal views and values Analyzing engagements with empathy in post-2008 literature and culture the book sheds light on the underlying affective dynamics that enabled the persistence of neoliberalism after the 2008 financial crisis alongside efforts to challenge its dominance

Simone de Beauvoir's feminist theory and practice as part of her political theory arguing that freedom is Beauvoir's central concern and that this is best apprehended through Marso's notion of the encounter. Starting with Beauvoir's political encounters with several of her key contemporaries including Hannah Arendt, Robert Brasillach, Richard Wright, Frantz Fanon, and Violette Leduc, Marso also moves beyond historical context to stage encounters between Beauvoir and others such as Chantal Akerman, Lars von Trier, Rahel Varnhagen, Alison Bechdel, the Marquis de Sade, and Margarethe von Trotta. From intimate to historical, always affective though often fraught and divisive, Beauvoir's encounters, Marso shows, exemplify freedom as a shared relational, collective practice. Politics with Beauvoir gives us a new Beauvoir and a new way of thinking about politics as embodied and coalitional.

Crime Fiction in the Caribbean Lucy Evans, 2024-09-18 Crime Fiction in the Caribbean: Reframing Crime and Justice is the first academic book to focus on crime fiction by Anglophone Caribbean writers. It explores how contemporary writers experiment with the crime genre in order to convey, contextualize, and comment on crime and justice in Caribbean countries. Lucy Evans reads crime fiction as a versatile mode of writing that can be politically engaged and that in a Caribbean context can expose power structures embedded in the region's multi-layered history of colonial conquest, genocide of Indigenous populations, plantation agriculture, transatlantic slavery, and indentured labour. This book covers fiction set in Trinidad and Tobago, Jamaica, Guyana, Barbados, Grenada, and Haiti, discussing novels by Elizabeth Nunez, Jacob Ross, Marlon James, Harischandra Khemraj, Esther Figueroa, Edwidge Danticat, Cherie Jones, and several others. Evans considers how fiction by Anglophone Caribbean writers not only reflects upon the social realities of crime and crime control in the Caribbean but also at times contests or complicates scholarly, popular, and legal perspectives. She argues that through their engagement with the crime genre, these writers raise pressing questions about what constitutes crime and justice in a Caribbean context and about accountability. Looking beyond the traditional focus of crime fiction and criminology on individual acts of wrongdoing, their fiction highlights systemic social harms rooted in the region's colonial past. Reading crime fiction through the lens of criminological research, Crime Fiction in the Caribbean brings the study of literary writing into scholarly debate on crime in the Caribbean. At the same time, it extends the global turn in crime fiction studies focusing on a region that has been sidelined even in studies which examine the genre's international dimensions
