The Gothic in Contemporary British Trauma Fiction Ashlee Joyce, 2019-09-05 This book examines the intersection of trauma and the Gothic in six contemporary British novels Martin Amis's London Fields Margaret Drabble's The Gates of Ivory Ian McEwan's Atonement Pat Barker's Regeneration and Double Vision and Kazuo Ishiguro's Never Let Me Go In these works the Gothic functions both as an expression of societal violence at the turn of the twenty first century and as a response to the related crisis of representation brought about by the contemporary individual's highly mediated and spectatorial relationship to this violence By locating these six novels within the Gothic tradition this work argues that each text to borrow a term from Jacques Derrida participates in the Gothic in ways that both uphold the paradigm of unspeakability that has come to dominate much trauma fiction as well as push its boundaries to complicate how we think of the ethical relationship between witnessing and writing trauma Engendering Realism and Postmodernism, 2021-11-01 This volume assembles critical essays on and excerpts from works of contemporary women writers in Britain Its focus is the interaction of aesthetic play and ethical commitment in the fictional work of women writers whose interest in testing and transgressing textual boundaries is rooted in a specific awareness of a gendered multicultural reality This position calls for a distinctly critical impetus of their writing involving the interaction of the political and the literary as expressed in innovative Romance Dana Percec, 2012-03-15 Romance The History of a Genre is a collection of essays devoted to the highly popular and no less controversial genre of romance. A genre often disregarded for its stereotypical language, shallow characters and predictable plots, dismissed as women's fiction, accused of conventionalism, romance is a genre which, after ups and downs in its millennial history, is now holding a leading position on the international bookselling market. This achievement has also been possible with the endorsement of contemporary media and modern technology: cinema, television, the Internet, etc. Much has been written in both traditional and more recent literary theory about the origins and evolution of the early forms of romance, from the classical Antiquity through the Middle Ages and into the Renaissance and early modernity in Western Europe. A corpus which is becoming more and more substantial today is already available about the gendered status of contemporary romance, both in terms of the writing ethos and in terms of reader response, with theories coming from the combined areas of feminism, social sciences and psychoanalysis. The aim of the present volume is that of noting the fluid character of the genre, with the great number of subcategories, mixed and hybrid, bringing evidence to the polymorphous nature of contemporary popular culture. This book proposes, in four parts and twelve chapters, a fascinating and multifaceted journey into the history, substance and geography of romance. From its origins to the latest developments, from its subgenres to its features, from print to film, from television to Facebook, romance comes in various shapes and colours which the reader can fully explore. The journey in the world of romance takes the reader from familiar corners to less familiar ones, from North America, Great Britain, Romania or Turkey to India or South Africa. The numerous approaches to romance generate diverse data, varied analytical frameworks and interesting, fresh and solidly grounded findings.

New Directions in 21st-Century Gothic Lorna Piatti-Farnell, Donna Lee Brien, 2015-04-24 This book brings together a carefully selected range of contemporary disciplinary approaches to new areas of Gothic inquiry. Moving beyond the representational and historically based aspects of literature and film that have dominated Gothic studies, this volume both acknowledges the contemporary diversification of Gothic scholarship and maps its changing and mutating incarnations. Drawing strength from their fascinating diversity and points of correlation, the varied perspectives and subject areas cohere around a number of core themes: of re-evaluation, discovery and convergence, to reveal emerging trends and new directions in Gothic scholarship. Visiting fascinating areas including the Gothic and digital realities, uncanny food experiences, representations of death and the public media, Gothic creatures and their popular legacies, new approaches to contemporary Gothic literature and re-evaluations of the Gothic mode through regional narratives, essays reveal many patterns and intersecting approaches, forcefully testifying to the multifaceted, although lucidly coherent, nature of Gothic studies in the 21st Century. The multiple disciplines represented, from digital inquiry to food studies, from fine art to dramaturgy, engage with the Gothic in order to offer new definitions and methodological approaches to Gothic scholarship. The interdisciplinary transnational focus of this volume provides exciting new insights into and expanded and revitalised definitions of the Gothic and its related fields

Savage Horrors Corinna Lenhardt, 2020-04-02 The American Gothic novel has been deeply shaped by issues of race and raciality from its origins in British Romanticism to the American Gothic novel in the twenty first century Savage Horrors delineates an intrinsic raciality that is discursively sedimented in the Gothic s uniquely binary structure Corinna Lenhardt uncovers the destructive and lasting impact of the Gothic s anti Black racism on the cultural discourses in the United States At the same time Savage Horrors traces the unflinching Black resistance back to the Gothic s intrinsic raciality The African American Gothic however does not originate there but in the Black Atlantic roughly a decade before the first Gothic novel was ever written on American soil

Heightened Genre and Women's Filmmaking in Hollywood Mary Harrod, 2021-05-24 Despite the widely publicised prejudice faced by women in Hollywood since around 1990 a significant minority of female directors have been making commercially and culturally impactful films there across the full range of genres This book explores movies by filmmakers Amy Heckerling Nora Ephron Nancy Meyers Catherine Hardwicke Sofia Coppola Kimberly Peirce Kathryn Bigelow and Greta Gerwig including many which are still critically neglected or derided seeing them as offering a new understanding of genre filmmaking That is like many other contemporary films but in a striking proportion within the smaller set of mainstream movies by women this body of work revels in a heightened genre status that allows its authors to simultaneously address intellectual cinephilic pleasures and bodily emotive ones Arguing through close analysis that these films demonstrate the inseparability of such strategies of engagement in contemporary genre cinema Heightened Genre reclaims women s mainstream filmmaking for feminism through a recalibration of genre theory itself The Twilight Mystique Amy M.
