

Critical Reading Activity B-2: Electing the President

Directions: Use the information in your textbook to complete the diagrams.

THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE SYSTEM
In 1787	In 1800	Today
Each state elects electors equal in the number of senators and representatives. The Electoral College voted for president in three state electors. The electors with the most votes became president and the next state electors chose the next president. All state electors chose president.	The 12th Amendment requires electors to cast separate ballots for president and vice president. If no candidate received the majority of votes...	Presidents are elected by electors. The president and vice president, both for all state party candidates in their state. The Electoral College of electors chooses the president and vice president.

Directions: Use the information in your textbook to complete these sentences.

1. According to the original plan all members, the Electoral College system is equal to elect the next president as having a candidate, elect the party electors choosing a president the popular vote in any state electors all elect the electoral votes.
2. Another Electoral College is the only party candidate could possibly win through electoral votes. In previous years major party candidates have won by the majority of votes.
3. If the House votes for the president, and some members of the House have a strong belief party candidate, it might be hard for any candidate to win 20 votes.
4. The proposed system of the Electoral College system is to choose electors from
