Congress and the Fall of South Vietnam and Cambodia P. Edward Haley,1982 This book offers an original interpretation of the effect of legislative executive relations on the war in Indochina and proposes a number of methods that might be used to build widespread support for American foreign policy Desiderata for the European Future: the US Security Context Institute for Defense Analyses,1969 Crucible of Beliefs Dan Reiter,2019-05-15 How do foreign policymakers learn from history When do states enter alliances Why have some small powers chosen to enter alliances whereas others have stayed neutral In Crucible of Beliefs Dan Reiter uses work in social psychology and organization theory to build a formative events model of learning in international politics History does inform the decisions of policymakers he suggests but it is history of a specific sort based on firsthand experience in major events such as wars Tested against balance of threat theory the leading realist explanation of alliance behavior Reiter s formative events model of learning emerges as a far better predictor of states decisions Crucible of Beliefs shows that contrary to balance of threat theory state leaders ignore the level of international threat and focus instead on avoiding past mistakes and repeating past successes A serious blow to realism these findings demonstrate that to understand the dynamics of world politics it is essential to know how leaders learn from history Unnatural States Peter Ian Lomas,2014-07-31 Unnatural States is a radical critique of international theory in particular of the assumption of state agency that states act in the world in their own right Peter Lomas argues that since the universal states system is inequitable and rigid and not all states are democracies anyway this assumption is unreal and to adopt it means reinforcing an unjust status quo Looking at the concepts of state nation and agency Lomas sees populations struggling to find an agreed model of the state owing to inherited material differences and unsurprisingly among theorists of the nation only controversy and a great confusion of terms Meanwhile the functional incarnations of the state agent are caricatures the mandarin state the lawyer state the landlord state the heir to history state and the patriot state Yet recent developments in international theory constructivism scientific realism postmodernism sacrifice state agency only at the price of an unhelpful abstraction The states system is dysfunctional and obsolete Lomas contends and international theory must be recast with morality as central to inspire and to guide historic change He focuses in his conclusion on prescriptions for change led by four moral concerns human rights weapons of mass destruction relations between rich and poor societies and the environment I begin this book writes Lomas with the commonest commonplace of international theory to expose it as a meaningless cliché In the masterly hands of Hobbes it was elaborated into a shock formula for organized society a reading of history as civilization's failure Kant sought to rescue morality from Hobbes and create the structures of modernity but Kant's influence is coming to an end In the Cold War politicians disagreeing over another philosopher almost brought the world to an end Hence the challenges of our time These are primary and profound Philosophers have done much to define the modern world The point of international theory is to change it
