Race on the Brain Jonathan Kahn, 2017-11-07 Of the many obstacles to racial justice in America none has received more recent attention than the one that lurks in our subconscious As social movements and policing scandals have shown how far from being postracial we are the concept of implicit bias has taken center stage in the national conversation about race Millions of Americans have taken online tests purporting to show the deep invisible roots of their own prejudice A recent Oxford study that claims to have found a drug that reduces implicit bias is only the starkest example of a pervasive trend But what do we risk when we seek the simplicity of a technological diagnosis and solution for racism What do we miss when we locate racism in our biology and our brains rather than in our history and our social practices In Race on the Brain Jonathan Kahn argues that implicit bias has grown into a master narrative of race relations one with profound if unintended negative consequences for law science and society He emphasizes its limitations arguing that while useful as a tool to understand particular types of behavior it is only one among several tools available to policy makers An uncritical embrace of implicit bias to the exclusion of power relations and structural racism undermines wider civic responsibility for addressing the problem by turning it over to experts Technological interventions including many tests for implicit bias are premised on a color blind ideal and run the risk of erasing history denying present reality and obscuring accountability Kahn recognizes the significance of implicit social cognition but cautions against seeing it as a panacea for addressing America's longstanding racial problems A bracing corrective to what has become a common sense understanding of the power of prejudice Race on the Brain challenges us all to engage more thoughtfully and more democratically in the difficult task of promoting racial justice

Handbook of Multicultural Counseling Joseph G. Ponterotto, 2001-04-25 This Second Edition of the Handbook of Multicultural Counseling marks an important turning point. It brings together the voices of some pioneers who have paved the way and introduces us to new voices who while influenced by the pioneers have taken different paths. Because the multicultural community is well represented in content and scholarship in this second addition the reader can be assured that the view points represented in this book speak to the core issues of the field. I am excited about this Handbook because the authors answer the question that is often heard at many a conference: Where is the research to support multicultural counselling? I am equally excited about this Handbook because it breaks new ground by using as its anchor oral histories which demonstrates that for many of us multicultural counselling is not simply a research agenda but a life long journey that cannot always be measured. The underlying theme of social justice only reinforces our commitment to this journey. Drs Ponterotto, Casas, Suzuki, and Alexander have once again helped shape the multicultural conversation. To those who have often said: Where is the research? Look no further. Donald B. Pope-Davis, University of Notre Dame. Its First Edition set a standard for a then emerging field. Now The Handbook of Multicultural Counseling, Second Edition presents not merely an update of the original but a completely reconceived work reflecting the many developments that continue to expand the field of multicultural counselling. This new edition features mostly brand new chapters and expanded coverage of historical perspectives on the field highlighted by personal accounts from some of the pioneers in the area: professional and ethical issues, counselling's role in fighting oppression, psychological measurement theories, research design, gender issues, and higher education issues. With contributions once again from the field's key leaders as well as top emerging scholars, this new edition maintains the breadth and comprehensiveness of the original. The Handbook of Multicultural Counseling, Second Edition is a critical resource for counsellors, counselling students, and other mental health professionals who seek to improve their competence in treating a culturally diverse clientele.

Handbook of Multicultural Counseling J. Manuel Casas, Lisa A. Suzuki, Charlene M. Alexander, Margo A. Jackson, 2017. Celebrating its 20th anniversary. The most internationally cited resource in the arena of multicultural counseling, the Handbook of Multicultural Counseling is a resource for researchers, educators, practitioners, and students alike. Continuing to emphasize social justice research and application, the Fourth Edition of this best seller features nearly 80 new contributors of diverse backgrounds, orientations, and levels of experience who provide fresh perspectives to every chapter. Completely updated, this classic text includes new chapters on prevailing social issues and covers the latest advances in theory, ethics, measurement, clinical practice, assessment, and more. This is the most comprehensive synthesis of cutting edge multicultural counseling research available. This is the gold standard and a must read for anyone working in a human services field. Audrey M. Ervin, Delaware Valley College.

present chapter reviews the current status of available methodologies for test translation and cultural equivalence addresses the emergence and problems associated with computer and Internet technologies for cross cultural testing and provides recommendations regarding clinical approaches to selection of adapted tests for assessing culturally diverse clients

Handbook of Multicultural Mental Health Miguel E. Gallardo, Nahal Kaivan, 2013-07-19 This chapter provides a review of the literature on multicultural curriculum development including the ethics of intersection and culturally responsive practices We argue that the integration of the fourth multicultural and fifth social justice forces in mental health must be the epicenter of our training paradigms Despite our best efforts to ensure that training programs continue to evolve to solidify an academic environment that reflects the environmental and contextual changes in society many programs are unable to mirror their educational efforts with the ever evolving demographic changes As we continue to situate our training programs and students in ways that reflect the needs of ethnocultural communities our desire to separate the personal from the political will no longer be an acceptable approach to training The continued challenges in bridging much needed gaps in these areas are further discussed in this chapter and specific training models are presented
