

Literature Review Structure

---

I. Introduction

In this literature review, we examine the evolving theories and findings related to urban sustainability. Our objective is to assess how various approaches to sustainable urban development have been implemented globally and to identify effective strategies for future urban planning.

II. Methods

We conducted a comprehensive search for peer-reviewed articles, books, and reports published between 2050 and 2070. Sources were selected based on their relevance to urban sustainability, methodological rigor, and contribution to the field. Inclusion criteria focused on studies that addressed environmental, social, and economic dimensions of sustainability in urban settings.

III. Thematic Analysis

A. Environmental Sustainability

Recent studies emphasize the importance of green infrastructure in mitigating urban heat islands and enhancing biodiversity. Notable research includes:

- Smith et al. (2052) explored the impact of urban green spaces on air quality.
- Jones and Lee (2055) examined the role of green roofs in reducing building energy consumption.
