Economy ,1992 The River Returns Christopher Armstrong, Matthew Evenden, H.V. Nelles, 2009-10-14 Alberta's iconic river has been dammed and plumbed made to spin hydro electric turbines and used to cleanse Calgary Artificial lakes in the mountains rearrange its flow downstream weirs and ditches divert it to irrigate the parched prairie Far from being wild the Bow is now very much a human product its fish are as manufactured as its altered flow changed water quality and newly stabilized and forested banks The River Returns brings the story of the Bow River's transformation full circle through an exploration of the recent revolution in environmental thinking and regulation that has led to new limits on what might be done with and to the river Rivers have been studied from many perspectives but too often the relationship between nature and people between rivers and the cultures that have grown up beside them have been separated The River Returns illuminates the ways in which humans both inadvertently and consciously have interacted with nature to make the Bow

Inequality in Canada Eric W. Sager,2021-01-20 In Inequality in Canada Eric Sager considers one of the defining but hardest to define ideas of our era and traces its different meanings and contexts across the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Sager shows how the idea of inequality arose in the long evolution in Britain and the United States from classical economics to the emerging welfare economics of the twentieth century Within this transatlantic frame inequality took a distinct form in Canada different iterations of the idea appear in Protestant critiques of wealth labour movements farmer progressive politics the social gospel social Catholicism in Quebec English Canadian political economy and political and intellectual justifications of the social security state A tradition of idealist thought persisted in the twentieth century sustaining the idea of inequality despite deep silences among Canadian economists Sager argues that inequality goes beyond the distribution of income and wealth it is the idea that there are wide gaps between rich and poor that the gaps are both an economic problem and a social injustice and that when inequality appears it is as a problem that can be either eliminated or reduced It is precisely because inequality appears in different contexts and because it changes Sager reasons that we can begin to perceive the contours and cleavages of inequality in our time In our century a political solution to inequality may rest on the recovery of an ethical ideal and egalitarian politics that have long preoccupied the history of Canadian thought
