Trust-Based Observations Craig Randall, 2020-07-30 The results are in observations are not improving teaching and learning Pertinently the Gates Foundation s recently completed effort to improve student outcomes through enhancing the teacher evaluation process failed to achieve substantive improvement The way observations are currently designed serve as an obstacle to teacher risk taking Teachers fear negative evaluations when their pedagogy is rated and they lack faith in being supported by supervisors because a trusting relationship between them and their observer has not been built Trust Based Observations Maximizing Teaching and Learning Growth is a schema changing evaluation model that understands people perform at their best when they feel safe and supported It begins with twelve 20 minute observations per week followed by collegial conversations driven by reflective questions sharing observed teaching strengths and the building of safe and trusting relationships with teachers Add the elimination of rating pedagogical skills and replace it with rating mindset and teachers trust When teachers fully embrace risk taking and innovation it leads to remarkable teaching transformations and improved student learning

The Roots of Low Achievement Sandra Stotsky, 2019-07-02 The chief purpose of this book is to explain how public education in this country became dysfunctional as a result of the education policies and programs funded by the federal government to address low academic achievement It highlights student effort as a central factor in academic achievement based on research noting its significance Teachers and school administrators cannot make children ready for college or career by grade 12 if their parents do not make them ready for school learning by kindergarten or grade 1 Once both the schools and students parents together made students ready for membership in our civic culture They learned they were politically equal to each other with a shared civic identity regardless of academic achievement Yet policy makers at USED and philanthropists in this country with a professed interest in the education of low achievers want low achievers to believe that their academic status is all that matters and that they haven't succeeded academically because of bigoted teachers administrators and communities Parent school partnerships need to revive their community's agreed upon mission for public education if we are to alter the roots of low achievement in this country

Dream Town Laura Meckler, 2023-08-22 Winner of the Ohio Book Award Finalist of the Malott Prize for Recording Community Activism Can a group of well intentioned people fulfill the promise of racial integration in America In this searing and intimate examination of the ideals and realities of racial integration award winning Washington Post journalist Laura Meckler tells the story of a decades long pursuit in Shaker Heights Ohio and uncovers the roadblocks that have threatened progress time and again in housing in education and in the promise of shared community In the late 1950s Shaker Heights began groundbreaking work that would make it a national model for housing integration And beginning in the seventies it was known as a crown jewel in the national move to racially integrate schools The school district built a reputation for academic excellence and diversity serving as a model for how white and Black Americans can thrive together Meckler herself a product of Shaker Heights takes a deeper look into the place that shaped her investigating its complicated history and its ongoing challenges in order to untangle myth from truth She confronts an enduring and troubling question if Shaker Heights has worked so hard at racial equity why does a racial academic achievement gap persist In telling the stories of the Shakerites who have built and lived in this community Meckler asks What will it take to fulfill the promise of racial integration in America What compromises are people of all races willing to make What does success look like and has Shaker achieved it The result is a complex and masterfully reported portrait of a place that while never perfect has achieved more than most and a road map for communities that seek to do the same

Alejandro Zaera-Polo, Jeffrey Anderson, 2021-05-11 The Ecologies of the Envelope theorizes the building envelope as a literal embodiment of the social political technological and economic contingencies which have become embedded within it over the last century analyzing the historical lineages heroes and villains that helped define the complex material ecologies we see within the envelope today While the fa ade is one of the most thoroughly theorized elements of architecture it is also one of the most questioned since the end of the 19th century Within the discipline of architecture the traditional understanding of the fa ade focuses primarily on semiotic and compositional operations such as proportional laws and linguistic codes which are deployed on the building s surface In contrast to this our material and environmental theory of the envelope proposes that the exponential development of building technologies since the mid 19th century coupled with new techniques of management and regulation have diminished the compositional and ornamental capacities of the envelope in favor of material quantitative and technical performances Rather than producing a stylistic analysis of the fa ade we investigate the historical lineages of the performances components assembly types and material entanglements that constitute the contemporary building envelope High-Performance Bolting Technology for Offshore Oil and Natural Gas Operations
