Grafting The Bodhi Tree Grafting The Bodhi Tree:

Buddhist Missionaries in the Era of Globalization Linda Learman, 2004-11-30 This insightful volume dispels the common notion that Buddhism is not a missionary religion by revealing Asian Buddhists as active agents in the propagation of their faith. It presents at the same time a new framework with which to study missionary activity in both Buddhist and other religious traditions. Included are case studies of Theravada Chinese and Tibetan Buddhist teachers and congregations as well as the Pure Land Shingon Zen and Soka Gakkai traditions of Japan. Contributors examine both foreign and domestic missions and the activities of emigrant communities showing the resources and strategies garnered by late nineteenth and twentieth century Buddhists who worked to uphold and further their respective traditions often under difficult circumstances. Based on anthropological fieldwork and historical research the essays break new ground and provide better analytical tools for studying mission activity than previously available. They provide instructive comparisons with Anglo American Protestant missionary thinking and offer insights into the internal dynamics of Sri Lankan and Japanese missions as they make their way in Protestant and Catholic societies. Also included are nuanced studies of two major missionary figures in late twentieth century Chinese Buddhism and a fascinating look at the present Dalai Lama's relationships with his devotees and the American government viewed through an exposition of the abiding tradition within Tibetan Buddhism that combines mission activity with the political goals of exiled lamas. Contributors: Stuart Chandler, Peter B. Clarke, C. Julia Huang, Steven Kemper, Linda Learman, Sarah LeVine, Richard K. Payne, Cristina Rocha, George J. Tanabe Jr., Gray Tuttle. Reading the Mahāvamsa Kristin Scheible, 2016-11-08 Vamsa is a dynamic genre of Buddhist history filled with otherworldly characters and the exploits of real life heroes. These narratives collapse the temporal distance between Buddha and the reader building an emotionally resonant connection with an outsized religious figure and a longed for past. The fifth century Pali text Mahāvamsa is a particularly effective example using metaphor and other rhetorical devices to ethically transform readers to stimulate and then to calm them. Reading the Mahāvamsa advocates a new literary approach to this text by revealing its embedded reading advice to experience samvega and pasāda and affective work of metaphors the Buddha's dharma as light and salient characters nagas. Kristin Scheible argues that the Mahāvamsa requires a particular kind of reading. In the text's proem special instructions draw readers to the metaphor of light and the nagas or salient snake beings of the first chapter. Nagas are both model worshippers and unworthy hoarders of Buddha's relics. As nonhuman agents they challenge political and historicist readings of the text. Scheible sees these slippery characters and the narrative's potent and playful metaphors as techniques for refocusing the reader's attention on the text's emotional aims. Her work explains the Mahāvamsa's central motivational role in contemporary Sri Lankan Buddhist and nationalist circles. It also speaks broadly to strategies of reading religious texts and to the internal and external cues that give such works lives beyond the page. Eternal Immortal Supreme Fei Xiang, 2020-09-12 Horticultural cultivation was different from others. St. Paul among the Philosophers John D. Caputo, Linda Marten, 2009-07-06

In his epistles St Paul sounded a universalism that has recently been taken up by secular philosophers who do not share his belief in Christ but who regard his project as centrally important for contemporary political life The Pauline project as they see it is the universality of truth the conviction that what is true is true for everyone and that the truth should be known by everyone In this volume eminent New Testament scholars historians and philosophers debate whether Paul's promise can be fulfilled Is the proper work of reading Paul to reconstruct what he said to his audiences Is it crucial to retrieve the sense of history from the text What are the philosophical undercurrents of Paul's message This scholarly dialogue ushers in a new generation of Pauline studies

Zen in Brazil Cristina Rocha, 2005-12-31 Widely perceived as an overwhelmingly Catholic nation Brazil has experienced in recent years a growth in the popularity of Buddhism among the urban cosmopolitan upper classes In the 1990s Buddhism in general and Zen in particular were adopted by national elites the media and popular culture as a set of humanistic values to counter the rampant violence and crime in Brazilian society Despite national media attention the rapidly expanding Brazilian market for Buddhist books and events and general interest in the globalization of Buddhism the Brazilian case has received little scholarly attention Cristina Rocha addresses that shortcoming in Zen in Brazil Drawing on fieldwork in Japan and Brazil she examines Brazilian history culture and literature to uncover the mainly Catholic Spiritist and Afro Brazilian religious matrices responsible for this particular indigenization of Buddhism In her analysis of Japanese immigration and the adoption and creolization of the Soto school of Zen Buddhism in Brazil she offers the fascinating insight that the latter is part of a process of cannibalizing the modern other to become modern oneself She shows moreover that in practicing Zen the Brazilian intellectual elites from the 1950s onward have been driven by a desire to acquire and accumulate cultural capital both locally and overseas Their consumption of Zen Rocha contends has been an expression of their desire to distinguish themselves from popular taste at home while at the same time associating themselves with overseas cultural elites
