the classic paradigm has been from the recognition of static objects in the scene to motion based recognition of actions and events Video understanding has overlapping research problems with other fields therefore blurring the fixed boundaries Computer graphics image processing and video databases have obvious overlap with computer vision The main goal of computer graphics is to generate and animate realistic looking images and videos Researchers in computer graphics are increasingly employing techniques from computer vision to generate the synthetic imagery A good example of this is image based rendering and modeling techniques in which geometry appearance and lighting is derived from real images using computer vision techniques Here the shift is from synthesis to analysis followed by synthesis Image processing has always overlapped with computer vision because they both inherently work directly with images
