Law in the Twilight Cindy Wittke, 2018-06-21 An informative book focusing on the internationalisation and legalisation of peace agreements to settle intra state conflicts between state and non state parties Cindy Wittke focuses on two key issues how international courts and tribunals deal with peace agreements and what implications the United Nations Security Council's involvement in the negotiation and implementation of peace agreements has for the agreements legal nature the status of the non state parties to agreements and the interpretation of peace agreements Wittke argues that the processes of negotiating and implementing peace agreements between state and non state parties create new spheres spaces and forms of post conflict law making and law enforcement For example contemporary peace agreements can simultaneously take the form and function of internationalised transitional constitutions and agreements governed by international law The resulting characteristics of contemporary peace agreement lead to permanent ambiguities shaping their interpretation and enforcement

On the Law of Peace Christine Bell, 2008-09-25 This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the use of peace agreements from a legal perspective It describes and evaluates the development of contemporary peace processes and the peace agreements that emerge. The book sets out what is in essence an anatomy of peace agreement practice and interrogates its relationship to law. At its heart the book grapples with the role of law in ending violent conflict and the broader questions this raises for the relationship of law to social change. Law potentially plays two key roles with respect to peace agreements: first, to the extent that peace agreements themselves form legal documents, law plays a role in the enforcement or implementation of the peace agreement; second, international law has a relationship to peace agreement negotiation and content in its regulatory guise. International Law regulates self-determination, transitional justice, and the role of third parties. The book documents and analyses these two roles of law. In doing so, the book reveals a complex dynamic relationship between the peace agreement as a legal document and the role of international law, in which international law and concepts of domestic constitutionalism are being re-shaped. The practice of negotiating peace agreements is argued to be producing a new law of the peacemaker or lex pacificatoria that connects developments in international law with new forms of domestic constitutional law in a set of hybrid relationships. This law of the peacemaker potentially forms part of a broader law of peace that moves beyond the traditional concept of law of peace as merely the rest of international law once the laws of war are subtracted. The new lex pacificatoria stands as an account of the way in which international law shapes and is shaped by peace agreements. The book proposes an ambivalent response to this new law, which connects to contemporary debates about the force of international law and its appropriate relationship with domestic constitutionalism.

Diminishing Conflicts in Asia and the Pacific Edward Aspinall, Robin Jeffrey, Anthony J. Regan, 2013. Since the publication of the 2005 Human Security Report, scholars and policy makers have debated the causes, interpretation, and implications of what the report described as a global decline in armed conflict since the end of the Cold War. Focusing on the Asia Pacific region, this book analyses the causes and patterns of this decline. In few regions has the apparent decline in conflict been as dramatic as in the Asia Pacific, with annual recorded battle deaths falling in the range of 50 to 75 percent between 1994 and 2004. Drawing on a wide range of case studies, this book looks at internal conflicts based on the mobilization of ethnic and nationalist grievances, which have been the most costly in human lives over the last decade. The book identifies structures, norms, practices, and techniques that have either fuelled or moderated conflicts. As such, it is an essential read for students and scholars of international relations, peace and conflict studies, and Asian studies.

Guarantees of Non-Repetition in International Human Rights Law and Transitional Justice Nita Shala, 2024-06-07. This book examines the understudied yet increasingly applied concept of Guarantees of Non-Repetition under international human rights law and transitional justice. Guarantees of Non-Repetition (GNRs) are measures taken to ensure that human rights abuses do not recur. They are especially crucial in post-war contexts marked by severe and systematic violations. However, although they are increasingly invoked, GNRs are not well understood and they have so far received only limited theoretical and practical analysis. Tracing their development to the influence of international human rights law, this book considers what

GNRs are how and why they have come about and how GNRs are implemented Through an explication of the history law and jurisprudence of GNR s in regional mechanisms in Latin America Europe and Asia as well as in international bodies the book maintains the increasing importance and as yet unfulfilled potential of this legal obligation in transitional justice settings This first book to analyse the development of GNRs and their application will appeal to scholars in the areas of law and transitional justice public policy and socio legal studies as well as lawyers and policy makers working in post conflict situations
