Light Tanks Mikhail Baryatinskiy, 2006 It is one of the ironies of Soviet tank development that a country opposed to free enterprise and capitalism was largely reliant on influences from Britain and the USA for many of its early designs However unhindered by many of the tactical constraints that affected tank development in the West the Red Army was able to acquire and develop technology that was under rated in both Britain and the USA From Britain the famous manufacturer Vickers produced a Six Ton light tank effectively rejected by the War Office one example was acquired by the Russians and this formed the basis of the Russian T 26 of 1931 Further British designs also influenced the later light tanks equipment which was pivotal to the Red Army during its campaigns in Manchuria Finland and against the initial German assault in 1941 In the USA Walter Christie was also largely ignored as a designer but as with Vickers his designs came to be highly important His influence was seen in the BT short for Bystrochodri or Fast Tank series of light medium tanks that was first introduced in 1932 The BT series saw service in Spain Manchuria Finland and in the defense of Russia itself in 1941 The critical aspect of the Christie design was that the vehicles were capable of operating both with nor without tracks in the latter case eight road wheels carried the weight of the vehicle with steering being achieved via a steering wheel acting in conjunction with the clutch brake system In the second of the new Soviet Tanks series Mikhail Baryatinsky provides the reader with a comprehensive account of the development and operational record of Soviet light tanks Utilizing photographs line drawings and specially prepared artworks he provides a detailed portrait of these highly successful tanks Aimed at the modeler military historian and war gamer the new Soviet Tanks series is designed to provide probably for the first time in the English language authoritative information on the classic Soviet tank designs of the 20th century The series will be required reading for all those interested in the development of armored warfare over the past 100 years

Sheridan R. P. Hunnicutt, 2015-09-15 This installation in R P Hunnicutt s legendary 10 volume history of American tanks and armored vehicles provides a detailed survey of the American light tank s developmental history culminating with the M551 Sheridan AR AAV and the vehicles based on its design In the period directly after WWII the Army became interested in developing a light tank Hunnicutt begins by detailing the program that eventually produced the M41 series of 76mm gun tanks that were designed to fulfill this interest At 25 tons the M4 was considered to be too heavy in spite of its popularity with the troops that operated it Programs developed in an effort to produce a lighter weight tank resulted in the T71 and T92 tanks both of which retained the 76mm gun and weighed in at about 17 tons However once it was discovered that Soviet tanks of the same caliber were amphibious the T92 was scrapped to redirect design efforts to an amphibious light tank This new program produced the XM551 Sheridan no longer designated as a tank but rather as an armored reconnaissance airborne assault vehicle or AR AAV for short An extremely complex design the M551 Sheridan AR AAV was plagued by problems with its weapons system in its early stages The vehicle required a great deal of frequent maintenance which made it unpopular with troops regardless of the fact that it provided a wide range of services It was phased out of service in the late 1970s Part III of this book covers the development of a future replacement for the Sheridan Part IV covers several other light tracked combat vehicles Boasting dozens of detailed illustrations line drawings and photographs as well as the depth precision and nuance for which R P Hunnicutt s books are renowned Sheridan A History of the American Light Tank is a must have for anyone with a keen interest in American military history Readers interested in related titles from R P Hunnicutt will also want to see Abrams ISBN 9781626542556 Armored Car ISBN 9781626541559 Bradley ISBN 9781626542525 Half Track ISBN 9781626541320 Patton ISBN 9781626548794 Pershing ISBN 9781626541672 Sherman ISBN 9781626548619 Stuart History of the American Light Tank Vol 1 ISBN 9781626548626 Firepower ISBN 9781635615036 Sheridan R.
