Handbook of Orthography and Literacy R. Malatesha Joshi, P. G. Aaron, 2005-08-31 Until about two decades ago the study of writing systems and their relationship to literacy acquisition was sparse and generally modeled after studies of English language learners. This situation is now changing. As the worldwide demand for literacy continues to grow, researchers from different countries with different language backgrounds have begun examining the connection between their writing systems and literacy acquisition. This text, which derives from a NATO sponsored conference on orthography and literacy, brings together the research of seventy scholars from across the world, the largest assemblage of such experts to date. Their findings are grouped into three parts as follows: Part I, Literacy Acquisition in Different Writing Systems, describes the relationship between orthography and literacy in twenty-five orthographic systems. This section serves as a handy reference source for understanding the orthographies of languages as diverse as Arabic, Chinese, English, Icelandic, Kannada, and Kishwahili. Part II, Literacy Acquisition From a Cross Linguistic Perspective, makes direct comparisons of literacy acquisition in English and other orthographic systems. The overall conclusion that emerges from these eight chapters is that the depth of an orthographic system does influence literacy acquisition primarily by slowing down the acquisition of reading skills. Even so, studies show that dyslexic readers can be found across all orthographic systems, whether shallow or deep, which shows that dyslexia also has internal cognitive and biological components. Part III, Literacy Acquisition: Instructional Perspectives, explores literacy acquisition from developmental and instructional perspectives and ends with a look into the future of literacy research. This Handbook is appropriate for scholars, researchers, and graduate students in such diverse fields as cognitive psychology, psycholinguistics, literacy education, English as a second language, and communication disorders.

Multicultural Families, Home Literacies, and Mainstream Schooling Guofang Li, 2009-02-01 Lack of knowledge about immigrant and minority students learning outside school has contributed to the difficulties educators encounter when trying to embrace cultural diversity. Many educators do not have the knowledge base about immigrant and minority children's culturally specific ways of learning in nonschool settings. Given the changing cultural landscapes in today's schools, we have an imperative to develop more situated understandings of immigrant and minority children's literacy learning experiences embedded in the social and cultural fabrics of their everyday lives outside school. This volume of research meets this important need in the field. It not only focuses on the complexity of literacy learning in diverse home contexts but also examines how literacy is practiced and lived in multiple ways within families of various backgrounds, including those of Asian, African, and African American, Hispanic, White, European, and mixed heritages. In addition, it explores how these various culturally embedded home practices will inform school education and policy making in a larger socio-political context. The book makes an original and significant contribution to the fields of literacy education and school-home and community partnerships. Since immigrant and minority families' literacy activities and the cultural contexts of their practices at home are not readily accessible to school personnel, program developers, policy makers, or even researchers and educators, this book will serve as an important resource for teachers practitioners undergraduate and graduate students teacher educators and university researchers who are in the fields of literacy education family literacy and new literacy studies minority and or immigrant education and second language education Organizing and Managing the Language Arts Block Lesley Mandel Morrow, 2003-01-01 This book offers essential guidance to preservice and inservice teachers seeking to create revise or add new strategies to the teaching of the language arts block The focus is on how to implement effective strategies in the context of a well planned classroom and a smoothly choreographed daily schedule In a series of vivid case studies Lesley Mandel Morrow brings to life the methods used by exemplary teachers to create rich student friendly learning environments for children in grades K 4 No component of organizing the language arts block is omitted including setting up and running classroom learning centers assessing different instructional needs conducting whole class and small group meetings and linking language arts to content area instruction Enhancing the practical utility of the book are sample daily schedules and classroom management tips for each grade level along with dozens of reproducible learning activities lesson plans and assessment and record keeping tools
