The Bluffer's Guide to Negotiation Alexander Geisler, 2008-10 Strategic thinking Given a choice between preparing the subject matter by studying it or preparing a strategy most negotiators are content to skip the subject matter This frequently leads to negotiations where neither party knows much about what they are bargaining over but each has a complex plan to ensure that they win This usually works out remarkably well Noto bene Every negotiator knows the expression perception is reality and some even know what it means This probably explains why negotiators are fond of bringing notes to the negotiation Any notes they don t have to be on the subject at hand are valuable They will give the perception that some preparation has been done In some circles large folded drawings can create a good impression Trivial pursuit In order to secure a bargain in which you get what is important and concede what is trivial it helps immeasurably if you can distinguish one from the other The best negotiators will create a lengthy squabble about a trivial point with every intention of conceding it By contrast many novice bluffers fall into the trap of conceding the trivial far too easily often without getting anything in exchange
