In addition to the three main windows, SketchUp also includes several other windows, such as the Component window that's open in Figure 1-1. You can open and close these as needed by using the Window menu. With the tools in these windows, you'll apply color and shading to your models, select and delete components, add shadows and lighting effects, and export your project.

Don't Be Afraid to Play

When you get started, you'll see a lot of windows. Don't be afraid to play with them. The SketchUp interface is designed to be flexible and adaptable. You can move windows around, resize them, and even hide them. The SketchUp interface is designed to be flexible and adaptable. You can move windows around, resize them, and even hide them.

SketchUp's menu bar is similar to the menu bars in other software, such as File, Edit, Window, and Help. SketchUp's View menu is a little different from the ones in most programs (Figure 1-2). The View menu has items in the SketchUp window that you can show or hide, including things like the drawing guides, wire frame, measurement tools, and view different models. If you're looking for tools that change over time of the SketchUp window, such as a View or the tool, look under the View menu.
