modern society and potentially transform knowledge itself as a productive force Who Owns Knowledge asks such questions as What is the appropriate balance of public and private interests involved in this process How can creative powers natural resources and indigenous knowledge be protected from either public or private exploitation Does the law have the power to prevent this exploitation or is adaptive technology needed Also in this identity theft conscious age how can the rights of the individual be protected against policies allowing access to any kind of information especially confidential information The editors and contributors demonstrate that the relationship between knowledge and the law needs to be further researched and discussed Who Owns Knowledge is a must read for those interested in the subjects of intellectual property the history and development of modern legal and economic systems and their entanglements and how judicial systems make choices between the legal and economic systems and especially between the public and private good and their often opposing interests

Bair,2010-06-01 Creating Cooperation Pepper D. Culpepper,2018-07-05 In Creating Cooperation Pepper D Culpepper explains the successes and failures of human capital reforms adopted by the French and German governments in the 1990s Employers and employees both stand to gain from corporate investment in worker skills but uncertainty and mutual distrust among companies doom many policy initiatives to failure Higher skills benefit society as a whole so national governments want to foster them However business firms often will not invest in training that makes their workers more attractive to other employers even though they would prefer having better skilled workers Culpepper sees in European training programs a challenge typical of contemporary problems of public policy success increasingly depends on the ability of governments to convince private actors to cooperate with each other In the United States as in Europe he argues policy makers can achieve this goal only by incorporating the insights of private information into public policy Culpepper demonstrates that the lessons of decentralized cooperation extend to industrial and environmental policies In the final chapter he examines regional innovation programs in the United Kingdom and the clean up of the Chesapeake Bay in the United States a domestic problem that required the coordination of disparate agencies and stakeholders
