By the Sword and the Cross Charles A. Truxillo, 2001-08-30 A concise overview of Spanish America during the colonial era 1492 1825 this study attempts a synthesis of Iberian and Latin American historical narratives within the context of world history Spanish civilization was transferred to the Americas as Spain imposed its medieval Catholic culture upon the Americas successfully replacing the elite cultures of the Aztecs Mayans and Incas Iberian culture became indigenous by way of cross culturalization and Creole elites found independence inevitable once their way of life became defined by American circumstances Truxillo places emphasis on the big picture through examination of broad developments such as the rise and fall of Pre Columbian civilizations Baroque culture in Latin America and the role of the Enlightenment in Spanish American independence He details the career of Tlacauelel the conquest of Mexico European rivalry in the New World and the crisis of government in the post independence period both in Spain and the New World The study also discusses developments in the fields of cultural studies and World Systems in the context of the acculturation of indigenous peoples to Iberian norms and the evolution of the Seville based system of trade Further it examines the process by which the Bourbon reforms alienated Spanish American elites and prepared the way for independence

Distant Tyranny Regina Grafe, 2012-01-08 Spain's development from a premodern society into a modern unified nation state with an integrated economy was painfully slow and varied widely by region Economic historians have long argued that high internal transportation costs limited domestic market integration while at the same time the Castilian capital city of Madrid drew resources from surrounding Spanish regions as it pursued its quest for centralization According to this view powerful Madrid thwarted trade over large geographic distances by destroying an integrated network of manufacturing towns in the Spanish interior Challenging this long held view Regina Grafe argues that decentralization not a strong and powerful Madrid is to blame for Spain's slow march to modernity Through a groundbreaking analysis of the market for bacalao dried and salted codfish that was a transatlantic commodity and staple food during this period Grafe shows how peripheral historic territories and powerful interior towns obstructed Spain's economic development through jurisdictional obstacles to trade which exacerbated already high transport costs She reveals how the early phases of globalization made these regions much more externally focused and how coastal elites that were engaged in trade outside Spain sought to sustain their positions of power in relation to Madrid Distant Tyranny offers a needed reassessment of the haphazard and regionally diverse process of state formation and market integration in early modern Spain showing how local and regional agency paradoxically led to legitimate governance but economic backwardness
