Seeking Eden Staci L. Catron, Mary Ann Eaddy, 2018-04-15 Seeking Eden promotes an awareness of and appreciation for Georgia's rich garden heritage. Updated and expanded here are the stories of nearly thirty designed landscapes first identified in the early twentieth century publication Garden History of Georgia 1733-1933. Seeking Eden records each garden's evolution and history as well as each garden's current early twenty-first century appearance as beautifully documented in photographs. Dating from the mid-eighteenth to the early twentieth centuries, these publicly and privately owned gardens include nineteenth-century parterres, Colonial Revival gardens, Country Place era landscapes, rock gardens, historic town squares, college campuses, and an urban conservation garden. Seeking Eden explores the significant impact of the women who envisioned and nurtured many of these special places, the role of professional designers including J. Neel Reid, Philip Trammel Shutze, William C. Pauley, Robert B. Cridland, the Olmsted Brothers, Hubert Bond Owens, and Clermont Lee, and the influence of the garden club movement in Georgia in the early twentieth century. FEATURED GARDENS Andrew Low House and Garden, Savannah; Ashland Farm, Flintstone; Barnsley Gardens, Adairsville; Barrington Hall and Bulloch Hall, Roswell; Battersby Hartridge Garden, Savannah; Beech Haven, Athens; Berry College, Oak Hill; and House of Dreams, Mount Berry. Historic Roswell, Georgia Joe McTyre, Rebecca Nash Paden, 2001 In the 1830s and 1840s low country planters came to Roswell, Georgia seeking relief from the heat and malaria that plagued Georgia's golden coast. The wealthy plantation owners were attracted to the temperate North Georgia climate by Roswell King, a former Glynn County plantation supervisor, builder, and entrepreneur who promised his friends free land on which to build their homes and stock in the textile mill he built in 1839. The village of Roswell was laid out in 1840 with wide streets, a park, mills, and a residential area, and a community founded by devout Presbyterians and hard-working industrialists began to take shape. By the onset of the Civil War, Roswell had two cotton mills, a woolen mill, and flour and grist mills nearby. The town's strategic location near the Chattahoochee River made it a target of Union Gen. William T. Sherman during his March to the Sea in 1864. While Federal soldiers occupied Roswell that summer, none of the grand homes of the town were destroyed. Residents persevered through the tolls of war and Reconstruction to rebuild mills and strengthen the local economy. A small and rural community through the early part of the 20th century, Roswell experienced phenomenal growth in the latter half of the century to become a bustling Atlanta suburb, yet much of the charm and small town character remains, and thousands of tourists are attracted each year by its beautiful antebellum homes and buildings These treasured landmarks are the subject of this engaging retrospective and each snapshot glimpse will illuminate the Roswell of yesteryear Show Thyself a Man Gregory,2016-07-25 In Show Thyself a Man Gregory explores the ways African Americans in postbellum Georgia used the militia as a vehicle to secure full citizenship respect and a more stable place in society As citizen soldiers black men were empowered to get involved in politics secure their own financial independence and publicly commemorate black freedom with celebrations such as Emancipation Day White Georgians however used the militia as a different symbol of freedom to ensure the postwar white right to rule This book is a forty year history of black militia service in Georgia and the determined disbandment process that whites undertook to destroy it connecting this chapter of the post emancipation South to the larger history of militia participation by African descendant people through the Western hemisphere and Latin America

Lost Mill Towns of North Georgia Lisa M. Russell,2020-04-13 The textile era was born of a perfect storm When North Georgia s red clay failed farmers and prices fell during Reconstruction opportunities arose Beginning in the 1880s textile industries moved south Mill owners enticed an entire workforce to leave their farms and move their families into modern mill villages encased communities with stores theaters baseball teams bands and schools To some workers mill village life was idyllic They had work recreation education shopping and a home with the modern conveniences of running water and electricity Most importantly they got a paycheck But after the New Deal workers started to see the raw deal they were getting from mill owners and rebelled Strikes and economic changes began to erode the era of mill villages and by the 1960s mill village life was all but gone Author Lisa Russell brings these once vibrant communities back to life

Original Women and Patriotism in Jim Crow America Francesca Morgan, 2006-05-18 After the Civil War many Americans did not identify strongly with the concept of a united nation Francesca Morgan finds the first stirrings of a sense of national patriotism of these United States in the work of black and white clubwomen in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Morgan demonstrates that hundreds of thousands of women in groups such as the Woman's Relief Corps the National Association of Colored Women the Universal Negro Improvement Association the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the Daughters of the American Revolution sought to produce patriotism on a massive scale in the absence of any national emergency They created holidays like Confederate Memorial Day placed American flags in classrooms funded monuments and historic markers and preserved old buildings and battlegrounds Morgan argues that while clubwomen asserted women's importance in cultivating national identity and participating in public life white groups and black groups did not have the same nation in mind and circumscribed their efforts within the racial boundaries of their time Presenting a truly national history of these generally understudied groups Morgan proves that before the government began to show signs of leadership in patriotic projects in the 1930s women's organizations were the first articulators of American nationalism
