A Mind for Tomorrow Erika Erdmann,David Stover,2000-03-30 Stover and Erdmann deal with the crises confronting today s world and argue that solutions will come not from new technology nor in retreating to an idealized agrarian past but by overhauling the beliefs that structure society They link the dilemmas facing civilization to a fundamental rift running through society one between religion and the humanities rooted in subjective experience and science which emphasizes objective knowledge They suggest a promising way of closing this rift found in the work of Nobel Laureate and neuroscientist

Roger W Sperry They examine Sperry's lifework including his famous split brain research and show how it led him to propose a theory of consciousness that challenged science's dismissal of subjective experience as irrelevant By seeing consciousness as an emergent causal property of brain function Sperry reinstated subjective experience into the scientific worldview laid the foundation for the cognitive revolution that has since swept through psychology and created a means by which science can help create ethical systems better able to deal with today's challenges Stover and Erdmann conclude by looking at ways in which others have built upon Sperry's ideas and they hold out the hope that with the creation of belief systems more compatible with science a way out of humanity's current troubles may indeed be found The result is an excursion through a world of exciting ideas and a book sure to absorb anyone interested in the fate of our species and how that fate might be influenced for the better Students researchers scholars and concerned citizens particularly interested in cognitive psychology science and society and futures studies will find the book intriguing

Research in the Social Scientific Study of Religion, Volume 23, 2012-05-23 The social scientific study of religion is a crucial arena of human endeavor as questions about the existence and nature of God interact with the study of religion as a human phenomenon The twenty third volume of Research in the Social Scientific Study of Religion continues the tradition of promoting extended debate of current issues in the field The special section on Theism and Non Theism in Psychological Science includes contributions from leading researchers in this area This landmark collection of papers draws on a range of perspectives that both summarize the theism debate in psychology and help to move it forward in new directions In addition the volume includes papers on other key areas in the study of religion such as spirituality and social capital

A History of Weed Science in the United States Robert L Zimdahl, 2010-02-04 It is important that scientists think about and know their history where they came from what they have accomplished and how these may affect the future Weed scientists similar to scientists in many technological disciplines have not sought historical reflection The technological world asks for results and for progress Achievement is important not in general the road that leads to achievement What was new yesterday is routine today and what is described as revolutionary today may be considered antiquated tomorrow Weed science has been strongly influenced by technology developed by supporting industries subsequently employed in research and ultimately used by farmers and crop growers The science has focused on results and progress Scientists have been and the majority remain problem solvers whose solutions have evolved as rapidly as have the new weed problems needing solutions In a more formal sense weed scientists have been adherents of the instrumental ideology of modern science That is an analysis of their work and their orientation reveals the strong emphasis on practical useful knowledge on know how The opposite and frequently complementary orientation that has been missing from weed science is an emphasis on contemplative knowledge that is knowing why This book expands on and analyzes how these orientations have affected weed science's development The first analytical history of weed science to be written Compares the development of weed science entomology and plant pathology Identifies the primary founders of weed
