Bibliotheca Americana, 1849 Singular Images, Failed Copies Vered Maimon, 2015-10-25 Focusing on early nineteenth century England and on the works and texts of the inventor of paper photography William Henry Fox Talbot Singular Images Failed Copies historicizes the conceptualization of photography in that era as part of a major historical change Treating photography not merely as a medium or a system of representation but also as an epistemology Vered Maimon challenges today's prevalent association of the early photograph with the camera obscura Instead she points to material formal and conceptual differences between those two types of images by considering the philosophical and aesthetic premises linked with early photography Through this analysis she argues that the emphasis in Talbot's accounts on the removal of the artist's hand in favor of the pencil of nature did not mark a shift from manual to mechanical and more accurate or objective systems of representation In Singular Images Failed Copies Maimon shows that the perception of the photographic image in the 1830s and 1840s was in fact symptomatic of a crisis in the epistemological framework that had informed philosophical scientific and aesthetic thought for two centuries The Oxford Handbook of Samuel Taylor

Schelling's centrality in the philosophy of nature is highlighted but also Coleridge's role in importing and adapting German philosophical and scientific insights into the domain of British science runs through the book. At the core of this original project is an interrelated and interdependent analysis of Cambridge Platonism, German idealism and British romanticism. Under the umbrella term of dynamical idealists, the editor of the volume refers to investigators of the vital energy of nature who characteristically combined the tradition of early modern speculative idealism with enquiries into an experiential study of nature involving mysticism, chemistry and empirical accounts of physical matter. Significantly, several chapters concentrate on the relationships between human will, agency, freedom and God, shedding light on modern conceptions of subjectivity and selfhood. All of the above makes this book of great value to historians of philosophy, literature and science. Samuel Taylor Coleridge

J.R. de J. Jackson, 2012-10-02. The Critical Heritage gathers together a large body of critical sources on major figures in literature. Each volume presents contemporary responses to a writer's work, enabling student and researcher to read the material themselves. Edinburgh Companion to Atlantic Literary Studies

Ralf Haekel, 2017-09-11. The Handbook of British Romanticism is a state-of-the-art investigation of Romantic literature and theory, a field that probably changed more quickly and more fundamentally than any other traditional era in literary studies. Since the early 1980s, Romantic studies has widened its scope significantly. The canon has been expanded, hitherto ignored genres have been investigated and new topics of research explored. After these profound changes, intensified by the general crisis of literary theory since the turn of the millennium, traditional concepts such as subjectivity, imagination and the creative genius have lost their status as paradigms defining Romanticism. The handbook will feature discussions of key concepts such as history, class, gender, science and the use of media, as well as a thorough account of the most central literary genres around the turn of the 19th century. The focus of the book however will lie on a discussion of key literary texts in the light of the most recent theoretical developments Thus the Handbook of British Romanticism will provide students with an introduction to Romantic literature in general and literary scholars with a discussion of innovative and groundbreaking theoretical developments Dictionary of National Biography, 1887 The Dictionary of National Biography, Founded in 1882 by George Smith, 1922 Dictionary of National Biography Leslie Stephen, Sir Sidney Lee, 1908 *Dictionary of national biography, ed. by L.
