The Sexual Revolution in Modern American Literature I. Glicksberg, 2012-12-06 1 The Dialectic of the Sex Motif in Literature Sex is a function of culture in literature today it plays only a small though aggressively righteous part Nature long held in bondage periodically breaks out in revolt but its victory is never complete In every society primitive as well as modern the sexual instinct is for good or evil always subject to some measure of regulation and restraint In literature where the battle between love and sex spirit and flesh is fought out in terms of symbolic action the writers support their cause for or against sexual freedom with varying degrees of evangelical ardor and outspokenness On this issue there is no unanimity for the simple reason that American culture is not unified in its beliefs concerning the nature of man The central conflict between instinctual needs and the claims of the ideal between physical desire and the inner check between Dionysus and Christ goes on all the time Sublimation is the cultural process whereby sexual energy is deflected from its biological source and diverted into spiritually higher and socially more useful channels But sublimation is for most men hard to achieve As civilization grows more complex the individual is exposed to a series of increasingly severe moral strains Pitted against Nature while subject to its laws he must henceforth be governed in his behavior by inner as well as outer controls

The Last House on the Block Sharon Cornelissen, 2025-11-11 Gentrification is not inevitable reveals Sharon Cornelissen in this surprising close look at the Detroit neighborhood of Brightmoor and the harsh reality of depopulation and urban decline In the minds of many Detroit is undergoing a renaissance thanks to gentrifying urbanites who've been drawn to the city with the promise of cheap housing and thriving culture But what happens when gentrification attempts to come to one of the most depopulated neighborhoods in the country a place where every other property in the neighborhood was a vacant lot and every third house stood empty To find out Sharon Cornelissen moved to the Brightmoor neighborhood of Detroit for three years and became the owner of a 7 000 house The Last House on the Block takes us to Brightmoor to meet Cornelissen's fellow residents She introduces us to the long time residents of the neighborhood who reveal their struggles to keep a home while keeping violence tall grass and yes gentrification at bay We also meet the eclectic white newcomers of Brightmoor and learn about their real estate bargains urban farms and how they became the unlikely defenders of urban desolation Where oldtimers take pride in neatly mowed lawns and hope for a return to residential density newcomers love the open space and aim to buy more empty lots to raise chickens and goats It is a story of gentrification but not at all in the usual sense it is a case of failed gentrification We often think about gentrification as an unstoppable force once the first white newcomers with yoga mats enter an often brown or

Black community the coffee shops and restaurants follow But in Brightmoor the dreams of white newcomers met the harsh reality of decade long decline Nearly a decade after Cornelissen s fieldwork began Brightmoor is even emptier than it was when she started Today depopulation remains more common than gentrification in poor communities Cornelissen s story offers deep insights into what it is like to live in a declining neighborhood and through the example of Brightmoor Cornelissen reveals why depopulation continues and helps us imagine a more inclusive and equitable city turnaround
