The Art of Examining and Interpreting Histologic Preparations William J. Krause, 2004-05 The examination and interpretation of tissue sections seen under the light microscope in a laboratory setting is an example of student directed independent problem solving The proper reading of a histologic section is an acquired art that can only be developed through practice close observation and repetition This laboratory manual was designed as a guide for students to aid them in this endeavor The laboratory study guide manual was designed to be used as a supplement to any current textbook and or atlas of Histology Learning objectives provide the overall goals for each chapter The narrative of the study guide explains how to systematically breakdown examine and interpret each tissue and or organ encountered without regard to a given histologic slide from a specific slide collection Thus this systematic method can be used to examine and interpret histologic preparations from any collection or of any species The student is encouraged to sketch label and create a personalized atlas while using this laboratory manual as a guide The vocabulary that should be developed and used during the laboratory can be found quickly by going to the bold face type in the appropriate segment of the text Each chapter contains one or more tables in which key structures used in the identification of a tissue organ are presented offering the briefest possible summary of important histologic features As a final short review an appendix provides summary tables that compare and contrasts the basic differences of several structures that are somewhat similar in general architecture
