

Seam Tracking Systems

cyclomatic

The Cyclomatic Series Seam Tracker control uses our proven microprocessor touch pad design to maintain the torch to weld joint position. The system continuously senses the position of the joint, translating the information into horizontal and vertical movement of the torch. As a result, the welding arc stays precisely on track — to within $\pm 0.005"$ (± 0.13 mm) or better!

The state-of-the-art performance of the control's Atmel® processor coupled with the rugged slide design options gives accurate, repeatable weld joint location.

All types of welding systems, both new and existing, can benefit. The system easily and quickly installs, without expensive brackets or interfacing, on manipulators, slide beams, tractors, positioners, turning rolls, and welding lathes, as well as on most custom welding fixtures.

The Cyclomatic Seam Tracker is especially beneficial in high-volume, accuracy-sensitive industries such as tank and pressure vessel fabrication, beam and structural assemblies, and pipe and tubing fabrication.
