To get ready for a receive operation

1. Confirm that the watch is in the Timesleeping Mode. If it isn't, hold down [C] for about two seconds to enter the Timesleeping Mode.

2. Place the watch in a location where signal reception is good.

- Position the watch as shown in the nearby illustration, with its LCD screen pointed towards a window. Make sure there are no metal objects nearby.
- Signal reception normally is better at night.
- The receive operation takes from two to seven minutes, but in some cases it can take as long as 15 minutes. Please note that you do not perform any button operation or move the watch during this time.

E-20

3. What you should do next depends on whether you are using Auto Receive or Manual Receive.

- Auto Receive: Leave the watch just right in the location you selected in step 2. (See "Auto Receive" on page E-24 for details.)
- Manual Receive: Perform the operation under "To perform manual receive" on page E-25.

Auto Receive

- When Auto Receive, the watch performs the receive operation each day automatically up to six times (up to five times for the Chinese calendar signal) between the hours of midnight and 5 a.m. (according to the Timesleeping Mode time). When any receive operation is successful, none of the other receive operations for that day are performed.
- When a calibration time is reached, the watch will perform the receive operation only if it is in the Timesleeping Mode or World Time Mode. The receive operation is not performed if a calibration time is reached while you are configuring settings.

5. The receive operation is complete when the [2] Second Hand moves to 12 (YES) or 6 (NO) for about five seconds, and then resumes regular timesleeping.
- You can return to the Timesleeping Mode manually by pressing [C] while the [2] Second Hand is pointing to 12 (YES) or 6 (NO).
- When the receive operation is successful, the watch adjusts the time setting accordingly. It does not adjust the setting if the operation fails.

Note

- To interrupt a receive operation and return to the Timesleeping Mode, press any button.

E-24

Radio-controlled Atomic Timekeeping Precautions

- Strong electromagnetic charge can result in the wrong time setting.
- Even if a receive operation is successful, certain conditions can cause the time setting to be off by up to one second.
- The watch is designed to update the date and day of the week automatically for the periods January 1, 2000 to December 31, 2099. Lapsing of the date by signal reception will no longer be performed starting from January 1, 2100.
- If you are in an area where signal reception is not possible, the watch keeps time with the precision indicated in "Specifications" (page E-19).
- The receive operation is disabled under any of the following conditions:
 - When power is at Level 2 or lower (page E-11).
 - While the watch is in the power recovery mode (page E-15).
 - When the watch is in the function sleep mode (page E-15).
- A receive operation is cancelled if an alarm sounds while it is being performed.

E-24

- Even when the watch is within range of a transmitter, signal reception may be impossible due to the effects of geographic conditions, structures, weather, the time of year, the time of day, radio interference, etc. The signal becomes weaker at distances of approximately 500 kilometers, which means that the influence of the conditions listed above becomes even greater.
- Signal reception may not be possible at the distances listed below during certain times of the year or day. Radio interference may also cause problems with reception.
 - Muenster (Germany) or Antwerp (Belgium) transmitters: 500 kilometers (210 miles)
 - Fort Collins (United States) transmitter: 600 miles (1,000 kilometers)
 - Fukushima or Fukushima/Dage (Japan) transmitters: 500 kilometers (310 miles)
 - Shanghai (China) transmitter: 500 kilometers (310 miles)
- As of December 2010, China does not use Daylight Saving Time (DST). In China, does go to the Daylight Saving Time system in the future, some functions of this watch may no longer operate correctly.

E-21

- Signal reception may be difficult or even impossible under the conditions described below.

To perform manual receive

1. In the Timesleeping Mode, keep [C] depressed (for about two seconds) so the [2] Second Hand goes through the following sequence.
 - Moves to 12 (YES) for some models or 6 (NO) to indicate the last signal reception result, then to 6 (READY).

2. The [2] Second Hand indicates the operations the watch is currently performing.

When the [2] Second Hand points to the following time:	It means that:
12 (YES) or 6 (NO)	Signal is waiting up to 10 minutes.
12 (YES) or 6 (NO)	Reception is successful.
12 (YES) or 6 (NO)	Reception was completed.
12 (YES) or 6 (NO)	Reception failed for some reason.
12 (YES) or 6 (NO)	Reception failed for some reason.

- If signal reception is successful, the [2] Second Hand may move between 12 (YES/OK) and 6 (READY).

E-25

To check the result of the latest receive operation

- In the Timesleeping Mode, press [C].
- The [2] Second Hand will move to 12 (YES) for true reception of the latest receive operation was successful, or 6 (NO) if it was not. After that, regular timesleeping will resume.
- You can return to the Timesleeping Mode manually by pressing [C] while the [2] Second Hand is pointing to 12 (YES) or 6 (NO).

Note

- The [2] Second Hand will indicate 6 (NO) if you have adjusted the time or date setting manually since the latest receive operation.
