Government in Wanggulam J.D. van der van der Ploeg, 2013-12-21      Religions of Melanesia Garry Trompf, 2006-09-30

Melania boasts over one quarter of the world's distinct religions and presents the most complex religious panorama on earth. The region is famous for its unusual new religious movements that have adapted traditional beliefs to modernity in surprising ways. As the first bibliographical survey to comprehensively cover the entire region, Religions of Melanesia is an invaluable research aid for anyone interested in this growing field. Trompf's work is a complete listing of scholarly publications and provides readable and concise descriptions that will clearly guide the researcher toward the most relevant sources. This survey covers 2188 entries organized topically and regionally. Trompf covers such subjects as traditional and modern belief systems and the emergent indigenous Christianity that has taken root. Regional coverage includes Irian Jaya, Papua New Guinea, Solomon Islands, Vanuatu, New Caledonia, and Fiji.

First Fieldwork Laura Zimmer-Tamakoshi, 2018-08-31

First Fieldwork Pacific Anthropology 1960-1985 explores what a generation of anthropologists experienced during their first visits to the field at a time of momentous political changes in Pacific island countries and societies and in anthropology itself. Answering some of the same how and why questions found in Terence E. Hays' Ethnographic Presents: Pioneering Anthropologists in the Papua New Guinea Highlands (1993), First Fieldwork begins where that collection left off in the 1950s and covers a broader selection of Pacific Islands societies and topics. Chapters range from candid reflections on working with little-known peoples to reflexive analyses of adapting research projects and field sites in order to better fit local politics and concerns. Included in these accounts are the often harsh emotional and logistical demands placed on fieldworkers and interlocutors as they attempt the work of connecting and achieving mutual understandings. Evident throughout is the conviction that fieldwork and what we learn from and write about it are necessary to a robust anthropology. By demystifying a phase begun in the mid-1980s when critics considered attempts to describe fieldwork and its relation to ethnography as inevitably biased representations of the unknowable truth, First Fieldwork contributes to a renewed interest in experiential and theoretical nuances of fieldwork. Looking back on the richest of fieldwork experiences, the contributors uncover essential structures and challenges of fieldwork: connection, context, and change. What they find is that building relationships and having others include you in their lives—once referred to as achieving rapport—is determined as much by our subjects as by ourselves. As they examine connections made or attempted during first fieldwork and bring to bear subsequent understandings and questions, new contexts from which to view and think about their experiences, the contributors provide readers with multidimensional perspectives on fieldwork and how it continues to inspire anthropological interpretations and commitment. A crucial dimension is change. Each chapter is richly detailed in history, theirs, ours, colonial, postcolonial, and the then and now of theory and practice. While change is ever present, specifics are not. Reflecting back, the authors demonstrate how that specificity defined their experiences and ultimately their ethnographic reproductions. Allen, 2002 These comparative studies focus on the relationship between war and games in an effort to achieve an understanding of the phenomenon of war in order ultimately to avoid it Out of the ten studies on war and games in this volume the first five are historical the next two are by anthropologists and the last three concern modern war games The purpose of this comparative study is to focus on the relationship between war and games by highlighting their differences and similarities in an effort better to understand the phenomenon of war Americans and Europeans contribute studies on war and games in ancient Greece the lack of military games in Byzantium jousts in the middle ages flower wars and the Aztec and Maya ball game games in pre industrial societies and their relation to war and aspects of computer and video games Contributors T B ALLEN T J CORNELL M HERMAN BRUCE M KNAUFT C M MAZZUCCHI P A G SABIN A A SHELTON DAVID TURTON T ZOTZ Christianity, Islam and Nationalism in Indonesia Charles E. The question addressed in this Element is What happens to a society when in the absence of influence from foreign populations constraints are released by a new crop making possible significant surplus production We will draw on the historical traditions of 110 tribes of the Enga of Papua New Guinea recorded over a decade to document the changes that occurred in response to the potential for surplus production after the arrival of the sweet potato some 350 years prior to contact with Europeans Economic change alone does not restructure a society nor build the social and political scaffolding for new institutions In response to rapid change the Enga drew on rituals that altered norms and values and resolved cultural contradictions that inhibited cooperation to bring about complexity rather than chaos The end result was the development of one of the largest known ceremonial exchange systems prior to state formation De Kebar 1855-1980

Miedema, 2022-07-18 The author studied the culture particularly social life of a tribal society of the Kabar plain in the inland area of the Kepala Burung Vogelkop in Irian Jaya The focus was on constants variants and changes in the field of kinship and religion Ch 1 gives a historical survey of the Kabar plain Ch 2 pays attention to environment and demographic data To determine the influences of processes of state formation in the East Indonesian archipelago on the Kebar chapters 3 and 4 look at the intra and intertribal kinship relations including changes occurring in them and the Kebar man and worldview Ch 5 discusses the connection between social historical and ecological influences on the culture of the Kebar in particular in the fields of kinship and religion Feast, Famine or Fighting? Richard J. Collective violence has played an important role throughout American history though we have typically denied it But it is not enough to repress violence or to suppress our knowledge of it We must understand the phenomenon and to do this we must learn what violent groups are trying to say Th at some choose violence tells us something about the perpetrators inevitably about ourselves and the society we have built World Military History Bibliography Barton Hacker, 2003-06-01 Preclassical and indigenous nonwestern military institutions and methods of warfare are the chief subjects of this annotated bibliography of work published 1967 1997 Classical antiquity post Roman Europe and the westernized armed forces of the 20th century although covered receive less systematic attention Emphasis is on historical studies of military organization and the

The Rope of Moka Andrew Strathern,1971-07-02 In the Mount Hagen area of central New Guinea warfare has been replaced since the arrival of the Europeans by a vigorous development of moka a competitive ceremonial exchange of wealth objects The exchanges of pigs shells and other valuables are interpreted as acting as a bond between groups and as a means whereby individuals notably the big men can maximize their status Professor Strathern analyses the ways in which competition between big men actually takes place and the effects of this competition on the overall political system

Ecology of a Tool Pierre Perequin,Anne-Marie Petrequin,2020-04-30 New Guinea and especially Papua New Guinea is the last country in the world where ethnologists were able to closely observe film and photograph the whole manufacturing chain op ratoires of polished stone felling tools from quarry extraction to finished tool use Research on the polished blades of PNG has evolved over the years following changing philosophies and research agendas While it is clear that an exceptional sum of information has been gathered it remains centered on that small part of the Highlands where conditions for field research were more pleasant than elsewhere This presentation of Irian Jaya axes therefore tackles a topic that remains mostly unexplored Until now stone tool research in New Guinea has followed an anthropocentric approach in which tools are seen more as vectors for social exchanges than as means of acting on the environment This monograph takes a different approach Here polished stone blades are placed at the center of the world between on one side the transformed natural environment and on the other the social and economic environment This approach allows for a suggestion of new avenues of inference in archaeology as well as to test and abandon existing ones In this volume the stone blade is considered as a living being existing in balance within its biotope This idea is not far removed from the beliefs of Irian Jaya farmers for whom life animates certain objects of their material culture Following a brief presentation of Irian Jaya the function of polished stone blades in Irian Jaya societies and the distribution of hafting styles is described defined and studied along with the quarrying zones and the areas of diffusion and use of their production The different trends in each area of polished blade production and exchanges are also noted Finally it concludes with a discussion of the ethnoarchaeological potential of these contemporary observations
