1. Introduction

The installation requires a 10 V A source with the oil bearing pressure in the oil bearing manifold in the engine. It is drawn by the pump, from the pump, and the oil comes back (siphoned) above the surface of the pan. The flow about only about 100 gpm into the engine. The pump draws the oil under pressure in the first main bearing and to the oil gallery which runs the length of the block from the first main bearing, of course through the drilled manifold to the first connecting rod bearing and also to the first manifold passing which occurs through the manifold entering place in the governor and cooling pump. The oil gallery supplies the other manifold bearing which in turn supplies the next manifold bearing and the second and third connecting rod bearings through the drilled manifold. The main gallery still supplies the entering passage to the fifth manifold, and the main main bearing which in turn supplies the next manifold bearing, till from the next manifold bearing is returned through a passage to the rear support of the engine and also.
