Masterpieces of Mystery Joseph Lewis French, 2014-02-07 A distinguished American writer of fiction said to me lately Did you ever think of the vital American way we live We are always going after mental gymnastics Now the mystery story is mental gymnastics By the time the reader has followed a chain of facts through he has exercised his mind given himself a mental breather But the claims of the true mystery story do not end with the general reader It is entitled to the consideration of the discriminating because it indubitably takes its own place as a gauge of mastery in the field of the short story The demand was never quite so keen as it is now The currents of literature as of all things change swiftly these times This world of ours has become very sophisticated It has suffered itself to be exploited till there is no external wonder left Retroactively the demand for mystery which is the very soul of interest must find new expression Thus we turn inward for fresh thrills to the human comedy and outward to the realm of the supernatural The riddle story is the most naive form of the mystery story It may contain a certain element of the supernatural be tinged with mysticism but its motive and the revelation thereof must be frankly materialistic of the earth earthy In this respect it is very closely allied to the detective story The model riddle story should be utterly mundane in motive told in direct terms Here again the genius of that great modern master asserts itself and in The Oblong Box we have an early model of its kind The stories of this collection cover a wide range and are the choice of reading in several literatures Joseph Lewis French heirloom It will occupy a chapter to itself in my forthcoming work on Historic Stones where full details of its weight size colour and value may be found At present I am going to relate an incident in its history which for obvious reasons will not be published which in fact I trust the reader will consider related in strict confidence I had never seen the stone itself when I began to write about it and it was not till one evening last spring while staying with my nephew Sir Thomas Acton that I came within measurable distance of it A dinner party was impending and at my instigation the Bishop of Northchurch and Miss Panton his daughter and heiress were among the invited guests The dinner was a particularly good one I remember that distinctly In fact I felt myself partly responsible for it having engaged the new cook a talented young Italian pupil of the admirable old chef at my club We had gone over the menu carefully together with a result refreshing in its novelty but not so daring as to disturb the minds of the innocent country guests who were bidden thereto The first spoonful of soup was reassuring and I looked to the end of the table to exchange a congratulatory glance with Leta What was amiss No response
