A History of the Future Peter J. Bowler, 2017-11-02 In this wide ranging survey Peter J Bowler explores the phenomenon of futurology predictions about the future development and impact of science and technology on society and culture in the twentieth century Utilising science fiction popular science literature and the novels of the literary elite Bowler highlights contested responses to the potential for revolutionary social change brought about by real and imagined scientific innovations Charting the effect of social and military developments on attitudes towards innovation in Europe and America Bowler shows how conflict between the enthusiasm of technocrats and the pessimism of their critics was presented to the public in books magazines and exhibitions and on the radio and television A series of case studies reveals the impact of technologies such as radio aviation space exploration and genetics exploring rivalries between innovators and the often unexpected outcome of their efforts to produce mechanisms and machines that could change the world

A Future for Planning Michael Harris, 2019-04-25 As well as being spatial planning is necessarily also about the future and yet time has been relatively neglected in the academic practice and policy literature on planning Time in particular the need for longer term thinking is critical to responding effectively to a range of pressing societal challenges from climate change to an ageing population poor urban health to sustainable economic development This makes the relative neglect of time not only a matter of theoretical importance but also increasing practical and political significance A Future for Planning is an accessible wide ranging book that considers how planning practice and policy have been constrained by short termism as well as by a familiar lack of spatial thinking in policy in response to major social economic and environmental challenges It suggests that failures in planning often represent failures to anticipate and shape the future which go well beyond planning systems and practices rather our failure to plan for the longer term relates to wider issues in policy making and governance This book traces the rise and fall of long term planning over the past 80 years or so but also sets out how planning can take responsibility for twenty first century challenges It provides examples of successes and failures of longer term planning from around the world In short the book argues that we need to put time back into planning and develop forms of planning which serve to promote the sustainability and wellbeing of future generations

The Once and Future World J.B. MacKinnon, 2013-09-24 From one of Canada's most exciting writers and ecological thinkers a book that changes the way we see nature and shows that in restoring the living world we are also restoring ourselves The Once and Future World began in the moment J B MacKinnon realized the grassland he grew up on was not the pristine wilderness he had always believed it to be Instead his home prairie was the outcome of a long history of transformation from the disappearance of the grizzly bear to the introduction of cattle What remains today is an illusion of the wild an illusion that has in many ways created our world In three beautifully drawn parts MacKinnon revisits a globe exuberant with life where lions roam North America and 20 times more whales swim in the sea He traces how humans destroyed that reality out of rapaciousness yes but also through a great forgetting Finally he calls for an age of restoration not only to revisit that richer and more awe filled world but to reconnect with our truest human nature MacKinnon never fails to remind us that nature is a menagerie of marvels Here are fish that pass down the wisdom of elders landscapes still shaped by ecological ghosts a tortoise that is slowly remaking prehistory It remains a beautiful world MacKinnon writes and it is its beauty not its emptiness that should inspire us to seek more nature in our lives

A New History of the Future in 100 Objects Adrian Hon, 2020-10-06 A riveting imagined history looking back on the twenty first century through one hundred of its artifacts from silent messaging systems to artificial worlds on asteroids In the year 2082 a curator looks back at the twenty first century offering a history of the era through a series of objects and artifacts He reminisces about the power of connectivity which was reinforced by such technologies as silent messaging wearable computers that relay subvocal communication quotes from a self help guide to making friends with posthumans describes the establishment of artificial worlds on asteroids and recounts pro democracy movements in epistocratic states In A New History of the Future in 100 Objects Adrian Hon constructs a possible future by imagining the things it might leave in its wake Early Modern Women's Writing and the Future of Literary History Lara Dodds, Michelle M. Dowd, 2025-02-03 Early Modern Women s Writing and the Future of Literary History demonstrates that a full accounting of early modern women s literary and creative activities is necessary to the future of literary studies writ large Despite benefiting from a rich body of scholarship and diverse critical practices early modern women s writing is still treated as an optional or secondary component of Renaissance literary studies as a whole In this book Dodds and Dowd offer a state of the field assessment of the critical and theoretical debates that have resulted in this state of affairs in order to advance specific visions for the future

Dodds and Dowd examine how perennial questions about authorship canon and literary value have historically influenced scholarship on early modern women's writing and its place within literary studies. Early modern women's writing has been perceived as belated out of sync with dominant critical trends. Dodds and Dowd show the belatedness of early modern women's writing to be a happy accident that positions women's writing as a resource for the renewal of literary history. In both the classroom and in scholarship, early modern women's writing shows the way forward for the field, whether in the revitalization of formalist approaches to literature through an alliance with feminism or in the integration of newer critical methodologies such as premodern critical race studies. This book demonstrates that a feminist literary history that places women's writing at its center is essential to the future of English Renaissance literary studies. There is, in other words, no history of English Renaissance literature without women writers.

Defining Sustainable Development for Our Common Future Iris Borowy, 2013-12-04. The UN World Commission on Environment and Development, chaired by former Norwegian Prime Minister Gro Harlem Brundtland, alerted the world to the urgency of making progress toward economic development that could be sustained without depleting natural resources or harming the environment. Written by an international group of politicians, civil servants, and experts on the environment and development, the Brundtland Report changed sustainable development from a physical notion to one based on social, economic, and environmental issues. This book positions the Brundtland Commission as a key event within a longer series of international reactions to pressing problems of global poverty and environmental degradation. It shows that its report, Our Common Future, published in 1987, covered much more than its definition of sustainable development as development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs, for which it became best known. It also addressed a long list of issues which remain unresolved today. The book explores how the work of the Commission juggled contradictory expectations and world views which existed within the Commission and beyond, and drew on the concept of sustainable development as a way to reconcile profound differences. The result was both an immense success and disappointment. Coining an irresistibly simple definition enabled the Brundtland Commission to place sustainability firmly on the international agenda. This definition gained acceptability for a potentially divisive concept, but it also diverted attention from underlying demands for fundamental political and social changes. Meanwhile, the central message of the Commission, the need to make inconvenient sustainability considerations a part of global politics as much as of everyday life, has been sidelined. The book thus assesses to what extent the Brundtland Commission represented an immense step forward or a missed opportunity.

The Future History of the Arctic Charles Emmerson, 2010-03-02. Long at the margins of global affairs and at the edge of our mental map of the world, the Arctic has found its way to the center of the issues which will challenge and define our world in the twenty-first century: energy security and the struggle for natural resources, climate change and its uncertain speed and consequences, the return of great power competition, the remaking of global trade patterns. In The Future History of the Arctic, geopolitics expert

Charles Emmerson weaves together the history of the region with reportage and reflection revealing a vast and complex area of the globe loaded with opportunity and rich in challenges He defines the forces which have shaped the Arctic s history and introduces the players in politics business science and society who are struggling to mold its future The Arctic is coming of age This engrossing book tells the story of how that is happening and how it might happen through the stories of those who live there those who study it and those who will determine its destiny

History of the Future of Economic Growth Iris Borowy, Matthias Schmelzer, 2017-02-24 The future of economic growth is one of the decisive questions of the twenty first century Alarmed by declining growth rates in industrialized countries climate change and rising socio economic inequalities among other challenges more and more people demand to look for alternatives beyond growth However so far these current debates about sustainability post growth or degrowth lack a thorough historical perspective This edited volume brings together original contributions on different aspects of the history of economic growth as a central and near ubiquitous tenet of developmental strategies The book addresses the origins and evolution of the growth paradigm from the seventeenth century up to the present day and also looks at sustainable development sustainable growth and degrowth as examples of alternative developmental models By focusing on the mixed legacy of growth both as a major source of expanded life expectancies and increased comfort and as a destructive force harming personal livelihoods and threatening entire societies in the future the editors seek to provide historical depth to the ongoing discussion on suitable principles of present and future global development History of the Future of Economic Growth is aimed at students and academics in environmental social economic and international history political science environmental studies and economics as well as those interested in ongoing discussions about growth sustainable development degrowth and more generally the future

California, Its Past History, Its Present Position, Its Future Prospects G. A. Fleming, 1850 The hand colored plates are of exceptional quality and the engraved frontispiece is one of the glories of Gold Rush literature Kurutz The California Gold Rush 242 Despite some bibliographical confusion as discussed by Kurutz the three plates would seem to be all the illustrations intended to have been issued with the book This guide is a perfectly serious one intended to be of actual use to an English emigrant Opening with a review of English law and regulations concerning ships carrying emigrants it soon moves to a general description of the area and its history mostly drawn from secondary sources such as Fr mont and Vizetelly Written principally for the poor those for whom the mind succumbs to the stomach the author puts forth the proposition that those who can successfully practice a trade in California will ultimately prosper more than those who merely seek gold Sloan
