Common Sense Questions About Learners Gerard Giordano, 2017-05-24 Parents asked educators about their children's learning Frustrated when they were ignored they asked politicians to put pressure on the educators They were then surprised when the politicians provided personal advice about the optimal way to nurture learning They were even more surprised when the politicians prescribed changes to instruction curriculum textbooks technology school safety teacher retention student behavior school funding and even the menus for school cafeterias More frustrated than ever they intensified their barrage of common sense questions

Mine! Michael A. Heller, James Salzman, 2022-02-15 Mine is one of the first words babies learn and by the time we grow up the idea of ownership seems natural whether we are buying a cup of coffee or a house But who controls the space behind your airplane seat you reclining or the squished laptop user behind you Why is plagiarism wrong but it's okay to knock off a recipe or a dress design And after a snowstorm why does a chair in the street hold your parking space in Chicago while in New York you lose both the space and the chair In Mine Michael Heller and James Salzman two of the world's leading authorities on ownership explain these puzzles and many more Remarkably they reveal there are just six simple rules that everyone uses to claim everything Owners choose the rule that steers us to do what they want But we can pick differently This is true not just for airplane seats but also for battles over digital privacy climate change and wealth inequality Mine draws on mind bending often infuriating and always fascinating accounts from business history courtrooms and everyday life to reveal how the rules of ownership control our lives and shape our world
