- Be careful not to damage the motor shaft when repairing the motor unit.
- When the heatlink (including X820) is removed from the motor board to permit repair of the circuit board, the transistor temperature may increase due to the lack of

- If noise is produced when the knobs are turned or replaced, apply white grease or a small amount of silicon (50,000 unit, a quarter of a drop) on the knob shafts and the moving parts of the spring.

Note: Resin of the knob may be damaged if lubricating oils other than those specified are used.
