

A REFLECTIVE ESSAY

The grand end of instruction ... is not to stamp our minds irresistibly on the young but to stir up their own; not to make them see with our eyes but to look inquiringly and steadily with their own; not to give them a definite amount of knowledge but inspire a fervent love of truth; not form an outward regularity but to touch inward springs.

-Rev. William Channing

Education is not the filling of a pail, but the lighting of a fire.

-W.B. Yeats

As a student, I always had the greatest respect for those teachers who could teach me not by telling me the answer but by showing me that either I already knew it, or that I could find it myself. It was certainly easy and addictive to accept a straightforward explanation to a question and get on with the day, but I came to find that true learning sprang only from the interaction of the inquisitive mind and the thoughtful teacher who was careful enough not to provide the answer but the path to it.

Since I became a teacher in 1996, I have tried to instill in myself these qualities that I held in such high esteem in my own teachers. I have always had compassion for students, recognizing they all come with their own vision and expectations, their own skills and knowledge, some well-developed and some needing improvement. Through this, I have adopted several tenets that guide my personal approach to teaching:

Believe in beneficence. I have come to believe that in general, most all students are inherently good. Particularly at the level of pharmacy school, they have a deep desire to learn and become professionals, though their outward demeanor may not always reflect this attitude. Though some students may seem distracted, uninterested, or challenging in nature, at their heart most students possess an inquisitive nature, and a need to succeed, though they may define their own level of success. As a good teacher, it is my job to find and inspire this desire in all students. I recall having several students who entered the rotation viewing it as little more than just a requirement, but exited expressing a newfound love of the profession or desire to do more. I encourage this attitude by letting students know on the first day of a rotation that a very

The Lea Guide To Composition

James D. Williams, 2005-04-11 The LEA Guide to Composition is firmly based on research into how people learn to write and draws on the most significant strategies and techniques in composition studies But this text is not just about the act of writing It is about using writing as a vehicle for learning about the world about the academy about oneself The focus is on writing as a means of interpretation The emphasis throughout is on encouraging reflection and developing critical thinking skills Although the text suggests ways of teaching that reflect knowledge about how people most easily learn to become competent writers it is specifically designed to allow for numerous approaches to teaching composition Instructors will value this flexibility This text is finely tuned to the needs and interests of today's composition students and teachers Classroom tested at various universities over a four year period to refine and improve its effectiveness the Guide is distinguished by a range of carefully crafted instructional features

Reading Writing Connection An extensive selection of fresh thought provoking professional work allows students to internalize models and acquire appropriate genre familiarity Student papers are included to illustrate how others have responded to real writing tasks similar to those the readers of this book will face

Critical Reading and Thinking Numerous reading selections are thoroughly analyzed to provide models of close critical reading Critical Reading Guides provided for some selections draw students in by asking rhetorical questions that develop critical thinking skills and better understanding of how the authors produced key effects

Diverse Voices Specially designed writing activities encourage students who are non native speakers of English or who come from non mainstream cultural backgrounds to share their perspectives with the entire class

Writing Activities More than 60 writing activities of various types are included suitable for students with a range of writing experience Many of these are short assignments that are linked to longer ones which allows students to build their skills sequentially adding new skills as old ones are practiced and mastered

Writing Guides Based on years of teaching experience these guides provide detailed information and concrete practical advice about how to succeed on selected assignments in each chapter

Group Activities Selected writing assignments include collaborative workshop activities that prompt students to engage in a variety of group efforts that enhance the writing process As a result group work progresses with a clear purpose and well defined goals leading to more student involvement and ultimately better writing

Application of Key Ideas Writing Assignments Writing Guides and Critical Reading Guides are complemented by activities that allow students to practice using important concepts discussed in the text that progress with a clear purpose and well defined before they begin an actual assignment

Journal Entries Prompts throughout the text are included to increase the amount of writing students do to enhance reflection and critical thinking and to engage students in reflecting on and making connections between college and their lives outside of class

Handbook The handbook provides basic information about the form and function of language It focuses on the usage conventions that are a crucial part of academic writing In addition it covers differences and similarities in the specific conventions that govern
