Makeschin, Reinhard Mosandl, Stefan Scheu, Wolfgang Wilcke, 2013-07-09 An interdisciplinary research unit consisting of 30 teams in the natural economic and social sciences analyzed biodiversity and ecosystem services of a mountain rainforest ecosystem in the hotspot of the tropical Andes with special reference to past current and future environmental changes The group assessed ecosystem services using data from ecological field and scenario driven model experiments and with the help of comparative field surveys of the natural forest and its anthropogenic replacement system for agriculture The book offers insights into the impacts of environmental change on various service categories mentioned in the Millennium Ecosystem Assessment 2005 cultural regulating supporting and provisioning ecosystem services Examples focus on biodiversity of plants and animals including trophic networks and abiotic biotic parameters such as soils regional climate water nutrient and sediment cycles The types of threats considered include land use and climate changes as well as atmospheric fertilization In terms of regulating and provisioning services the emphasis is primarily on water regulation and supply as well as climate regulation and carbon sequestration With regard to provisioning services the synthesis of the book provides science based recommendations for a sustainable land use portfolio including several options such as forestry pasture management and the practices of indigenous peoples In closing the authors show how they integrated the local society by pursuing capacity building in compliance with the CBD ABS Convention on Biological Diversity Access and Benefit Sharing in the form of education and knowledge transfer for application Science Knowledge and the Environment Michael Littledyke, Liz Lakin, Keith Ross, 2013-12-19 First Published in 2000 The timing of this book is auspicious in that we can look backwards at the twentieth century as the period of maximum environmental impact by humans in their history while looking forward to a new era of potential improvement by drawing on and learning from this experience This book's purpose therefore is to

Biodiversity Conservation in Costa Rica Gordon W. Frankie, Alfonso Mata, S. Bradleigh Vinson, 2025-03-21 The beautiful tropical dry forest of northwest Costa Rica with its highly seasonal rainfall and diversely vegetated landscape is disappearing

even more rapidly than Costa Rica's better known rain forest primarily because it has been easier to convert to agriculture. This book based on more than thirty years of study offers the first comprehensive look at the ecology, biodiversity and conservation status of this endangered and fragile region. The contributors from Costa Rica, Britain, Mexico and the United States and representing the fields of ecology, environmental education, policy and the law examine the major plant and animal groups living in the dry forest and present the first technical evaluation of Costa Rica's conservation efforts. As they assess the status of their area of specialty in the dry forest, the contributors also look beyond this particular region to show how its plants and animals are ecologically and evolutionarily connected to other geographic areas in Costa Rica and Central America. Their chapters cover topics such as watershed and coastal management, plant phenology, pollination, insects, birds, mammals, amphibians and reptiles. They also consider the socioeconomic, policy, legal and political aspects of biodiversity conservation, giving the volume a wide ranging perspective and making a unique contribution to our knowledge of the tropical dry forest. The book concludes with an important synthesis of the contributors' recommendations on future directions, policies and actions that will better conserve biodiversity in Costa Rica and other neotropical forests as well. Nature-based Solutions for Urban Resilience and Human Health Bo Hong, Bin Jiang, Henrik

Vejre, 2024-05-03. Climate change and rapid urbanization have significant impacts on biodiversity and ecosystem functions and services. Nature-based solutions (NBS) is an action to work with and enhance nature to solve social challenges, and NBS is an umbrella concept for other mature nature-based approaches. Blue-green spaces (BGS) can provide a wide range of ecosystem services including mitigation of urban heat island effects, reduction of flooding, mitigation of air pollution and provision of recreational spaces, thereby promoting physical and mental health. Hence, NBSs can serve as cost-effective climate mitigation and adaptation tools that contribute to additional co-benefits for ecosystem health and human well-being. Environmentalists, epidemiologists, ecologists, urban planners and policymakers have paid more attention to NBSs for urban resilience and human health. In this Research Topic, we hope to discuss these topics: 1. ecological exposure and health benefits; 2. climate adaptation and human health promotion possibilities by NBSs; 3. methodological and theoretical approaches as well as technologies of NBSs corresponding to urban resilience; 4. underlying pathways and potential mechanisms of NBSs in improving human health; and 5. policies and management for planning and design of the successful implementation of NBSs in relation to urban resilience and human health. This Research Topic focuses on but is not restricted to the following issues: Nature-based interventions for climate adaptation; Ecological exposure and physical and psychological health outcomes; Climate adaptation, environmental policies and management; Theoretical and case-based studies on climate mitigation and adaption by NBSs Ecosystem service perspective on promoting urban resilience This Research Topic welcomes the following types of manuscripts Original Research Hypothesis and Theory Review and Perspective

Sand Dune Conservation, Management and Restoration J. Patrick Doody, 2012-09-18 This book deals with the development of temperate coastal sand dunes and the way these have been influenced by human activity The different states in which the habitat exists both for the beach foredune and inland dune are reviewed against the pressures exerted upon them Options for management are considered and the likely consequences of taking a particular course of action highlighted These options include traditional approaches to the conservation and management of wildlife and landscapes as well as habitat restoration The way the value of the areas changes under different management regimes is considered mainly from an environmental perspective Consideration is given to new approaches to management and restoration including adopting a more dynamic approach Audience This book will be of interest to academics students and professionals concerned with policy formulation and or actively managing coastal areas Green Infrastructure John W. Dover, 2015-07-16 With more than half of the world's population now living in urban areas it is vitally important that towns and cities are healthy places to live The principal aim of this book is to synthesize the disparate literature on the use of vegetation in the built environment and its multifunctional benefits to humans The author reviews issues such as contact with wildlife and its immediate and long term effects on psychological and physical wellbeing the role of vegetation in removing health damaging pollutants from the air green roofs and green walls which provide insulation reduce energy use and decrease the carbon footprint of buildings and structural vegetation such as street trees providing shading and air circulation whilst also helping to stop flash floods through surface drainage Examples are used throughout to illustrate the practical use of vegetation to improve the urban environment and deliver ecosystem services Whilst the underlying theme is the value of biodiversity the emphasis is less on existing high value green spaces such as nature reserves parks and gardens than on the sealed surfaces of urban areas building surfaces roads car parks plazas etc The book shows how these and the spaces they encapsulate can be modified to meet current and future environmental challenges including climate change The value of existing green space is also covered to provide a comprehensive textbook of international relevance Using The Biological Literature Diane Schmidt, Elisabeth B. Tyson, Jill Jäger, Pamela A. Matson, Berrien Moore III, Frank Oldfield, Katherine

Richardson, Hans-Joachim Schellnhuber, Billie L. Turner, Robert J. Wasson, 2005-12-29 The interactions between environmental change and human societies have a long complex history spanning many millennia but these have changed fundamentally in the last century Human activities are now so pervasive and profound that they are altering the Earth in ways which threaten the very life support system upon which humans depend This book describes what is known about the Earth System and the impact of changes caused by humans It considers the consequences of these changes with respect to the stability of the Earth System and the well being of humankind as well as exploring future paths towards Earth System science in support of global sustainability      Environmental Health Perspectives ,1993      Marine Policy Mark Zacharias, 2014-03-14 This textbook provides the reader with a foundation in policy development and analysis and describes how policy including legal mechanisms is applied to marine environments around the world It offers a systematic treatment of all aspects of marine policy including environmental protection fisheries transportation energy mining and climate change It starts with a biophysical overview of the structure and function of the marine environment with a particular emphasis on the challenges and opportunities of managing the marine environment An overview of the creation and function of international law is then provided with a focus on international marine law It explores the geographic and jurisdictional dimensions of marine policy as well the current and anticipated challenges facing marine systems including climate change related impacts and resource over exploitation The book should appeal to senior undergraduate and graduate students and form a core part of the curriculum for marine affairs science and policy courses It will also provide supplementary reading for students taking a course in the law of the oceans but is not aimed at legal specialists      Community Ecology Gary G. Mittelbach, Brian J. McGill, 2019-05-24 Community ecology has undergone a transformation in recent years from a discipline largely focused on processes occurring within a local area to a discipline encompassing a much richer domain of study including the linkages between communities separated in space metacommunity dynamics niche and neutral theory the interplay between ecology and evolution eco evolutionary dynamics and the influence of historical and regional processes in shaping patterns of biodiversity To fully understand these new developments however students continue to need a strong foundation in the study of species interactions and how these interactions are assembled into food webs and other ecological networks This new edition fulfils the book s original aims both as a much needed up to date and accessible introduction to modern community ecology and in identifying the important questions that are yet to be answered This research driven textbook introduces state of the art community ecology to a new generation of students adopting reasoned and balanced perspectives on as yet unresolved issues Community Ecology is suitable for advanced undergraduates graduate students and researchers seeking a broad up to date coverage of ecological concepts at the community level
