It is one of the first to talk about how revitalization strategies are implemented in both cities and suburbs, particularly inner ring suburbs that are experiencing decline previously associated only with inner city neighborhoods. After setting the context with a brief history of economic development practice and its shortcomings, Fitzgerald and Leigh focus on six economic development strategies: sectoral strategies, Brownfield redevelopment, industrial retention, commercial revitalization, industrial and office property reuse, and workforce development.

Spatial Interaction Modelling John R. Roy, 2012-09-22 In this book, the author's strong commitment to the multi-disciplinary field of regional science emerges to provide a unifying framework between spatial modelling traditions from quantitative geography and those from spatial economics, whereby each is enhanced. Starting with a detailed discussion of each field, illustrated with numerical examples, the two traditions are brought together by either making the economic models probabilistic or transforming the objectives of the geographic models to reflect both utility theory and production theory. The ideas are applied to develop urban models of activity analysis, face-to-face contacts, and housing supply, as well as regional models in the areas of input-output analysis, imperfect competition, and interregional migration.
