Super Stupid M. LAUER,2019-09-14 Normal stupidity super stupidity and plain unadorned everyday stupidity are all legitimate but different kinds of stupidity It may sound strange but it turns out that stupidity really does come in different flavors that aren't equally stupid some of them are far more serious and dangerous than others In Part I we will explain how normal stupidity is built into our equipment and is not a bad thing but on the contrary is actually quite a good thing In Part II we will explain how super stupidity is a different and much more dangerous order of stupidity that is the result of choices deliberately made and actions carefully taken to satisfy emotional needs In Part we look to the future and consider our different options for limiting the damage that super stupidity does to our society Super stupidity breeds on character flaws and thrives on intellectual weakness it is a noxious concoction of arrogance and disrespect that anyone can brew on their own but that our institutions of higher learning carefully breed into their liberal arts graduates The super stupid postmodernist philosophy that has taken over the universities preaches that there is no reality but power no morality but its collectivist ideology In fact though it turns out that reality actually is real and that it can be unambiguously defined once you realize that the reality of physical things and the reality of ideas and meaning are both legitimate but separate realities Once you grok the multiplicity of reality then you can immediately begin to understand that truth also actually does exist but as a matrix rather than as a simple scalar value Higher level reasoning is more complicated than we were led to believe So complicated in fact that universities haven't even begun to explore it let alone to teach it But once you find where the path that leads to it starts you will see that the way forward is neither too difficult nor too long to climb The Cure for Stupidity
