

Glory Movie Questions

1. How does the attitude of Colonel Robert Gould Shaw toward African-Americans change and why?

Colonel Shaw's attitude toward African-Americans changes over the course of the movie. At first, he is a white supremacist who believes that African-Americans are inferior to white people. However, as he spends more time with the 54th Massachusetts Infantry, he begins to see them as individuals and not just as a race. This change in attitude is what allows him to lead the regiment with respect and dignity.

2. What differences exist among the black soldiers who make up the 54th Massachusetts Infantry? What does this tell you about the different experiences of blacks in 19th-century America? What about their regions of origin, former status (enslaved), and educational background?

The 54th Massachusetts Infantry was a regiment of African-American soldiers who fought in the American Civil War. The soldiers came from different backgrounds and regions of the United States. Some were former slaves, while others were free men. This diversity of experience and background is what makes the 54th so unique.

3. What attitudes did white soldiers have about the 54th? Did these attitudes change and why?

At first, the white soldiers in the 54th were often treated with disrespect and prejudice. They were seen as inferior and were often given the most dangerous and difficult tasks. However, as the white soldiers saw the bravery and skill of the African-American soldiers, their attitudes began to change.

4. Were blacks treated equally to whites in the Union army? Explain.

No, blacks were not treated equally to whites in the Union army. They were often given the most dangerous and difficult tasks, and they were often paid less than white soldiers. However, their bravery and skill were often recognized, and they were given the same respect and dignity as white soldiers.

5. What is significant about Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse to resign?

Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse to resign is significant because it shows that he is willing to stand up for his beliefs, even if it means losing his job. This is a very brave and honorable decision, and it is one that many people can learn from.

6. Did that incident end as you expected? What feelings or thoughts come over you left with?

The incident ended as I expected. The 54th Massachusetts Infantry was given the honor of being the first African-American regiment to march in a parade in New York City. This was a very important moment in American history, and it was a testament to the bravery and skill of the African-American soldiers who fought in the Civil War.
