Growth Centres In Spatial Planning Pergamon Urban And Regional Planning:

Growth Centres in Spatial Planning Malcolm J. Moseley, 2013-10-22 Growth Centres in Spatial Planning examines the role of growth centers in spatial planning in terms of achieving the intended objectives. Intended objectives include improving a region's potential for adopting innovations, a saving in public investment on infrastructure, a more efficient pattern of service provision, a dissemination of growth impulses throughout the problem region, and the interception of would-be migrants from the region. More specifically, this book analyzes the extent to which growth center policies are likely to attain these objectives and how such policies might be modified accordingly. This text consists of eight chapters and begins with an appraisal of growth center theory and growth center policy along with the fundamental issues that are involved in putting such policies into practice. This is followed by a discussion on regional policies with a clear growth center element in Scotland, Ireland, and France. The reader is then introduced to the link between urban centers and the diffusion of innovations, the degree to which the spatial concentration of investment is desirable in order to achieve the most economic pattern of service provision, and the role of spatial agglomeration in stimulating economic growth. The spatial impact of growth centers and the role of growth centers in generating intercepting and attracting migrants are also considered. This text concludes with a chapter that proposes some policy guidelines and directions for research. This book will be of interest to planners and policymakers involved in urban planning and regional development more generally.

Spatial inequalities and regional development

H. Folmer, Jan Janssen, 2013-03-09 In September 1977 a Regional Science Symposium was held at the Faculty of Economics of the University of Groningen in the Netherlands. Organized because of the recent establishment at the Faculty of Economics of a group that is engaged in teaching and research in the field of regional science, the aim of the symposium was to make university members more familiar with regional science and to introduce the newly created group to the national and international scene. Two separate topics were selected of potential interest to both researchers and policy makers. The first, spatial inequalities and regional development, was chosen because of its central place in regional science. Authors from several disciplines were asked to approach this theme from a general policy orientated point of view. This ensured the enlightenment of the various dimensions of spatial inequality and its implications for regional policy. The results have been collected in the volume Spatial Inequalities and Regional Development. The second theme focused on spatial statistical analysis. This branch of statistics is a relatively new one which receives growing attention among researchers in the field of applied regional science. The meeting on this topic concentrated on new results of research on the use of appropriate statistical and econometric methods for analyzing spatial data. The papers concerned have been collected into another volume, Exploratory and Explanatory Statistical Analysis of Spatial Data.

Urbanisation and Planning in the Third World Robert Potter, 2012-08-06 First published in 1985 this book reconsiders the whole question of urbanisation and planning in the Third World It argues that public involvement which is now an accepted part of Western planning should be used more in Third World cities It shows that many inhabitants of Third World cities are migrants from rural areas and have very definite ideas about what the function of the city should be and what it ought to offer and it goes on to argue that therefore a planning process which involves more public participation would better serve local needs and would do much more to solve problems than the contemporary approach

The Ancestry of Regional Spatial Planning Louis C. Wassenhoven, 2018-09-20 This book is not a historical or archaeological treatise but rather a study in which the author looks at the past not as a historian but as a planner who has the ambition to unravel the early manifestations of his discipline a discipline which did not exist as such in remote periods but the ingredients of which were nevertheless present The author has observed the past equipped with knowledge and understanding of what regional planning was in the second half of the twentieth century and still is He stands in the period of the first decades after the Second World War which were the formative years of regional planning and looks back at bygone ages He discusses ideas and literature from the immediate post war period in order to examine the ancestry of regional planning through their lens The book will attract a broad range of readers because of its approach and its wide coverage of historical periods and world regions Although Europe is the main focus the book contains material on all continents and all periods the ancient world the medieval age and the modern era The history of Urban Planning is taught and researched widely but the history or pre history before the twentieth century of Regional Spatial Planning is not This book will fill that vacuum

Comprehensive and unique the first of its kind in human geography Marketing in an Agricultural Region Ajit Kumar Jain,1993 It presents how the spatial system of market centres is organised and structured in the form of vested hierarchical system and how regional development should be structured in consonance with their regional hierarchy so that the functional cohesion and efficiency of the regional system is preserved and augmented Development Planning and Spatial Structure Alan Gilbert,1976 Monograph of original research articles on theoretical issues and empirical experience in the field of regional planning and urban planning for regional development in developing countries includes a case study of the social implications of a family planning programme in India and examines rural areas and urban areas communications the relationship of migration and economic development regional disparities urbanization policy in Latin America etc Maps references and statistical tables Process of Urban Fringe Development K. N. Gopi,1978 Study of Uppal a suburb of Hyderabad India Industrial Location and Planning in the United Kingdom David Keeble,2022-06-01 First published in 1976 Industrial Location and Planning in the United Kingdom investigates in detail the nature of the changes taking place in the location of manufacturing industry since the 1950s and the reasons for them including the effects of government regional policy and of factors such as market accessibility labour availability and cost transport facilities and personal residential preferences by industrialists and workers The book brings together a wide range of published and unpublished material in discussing and evaluating explanations for regional and local manufacturing growth or decline Government regional policy and planning is singled out for special attention in terms of the impact of Development Area grants of local planning controls and of the town programmes Manufacturing movement to new locations and the implications of government regional policies for industrial efficiency are examined in detail together with the reasons for locational change in key but controversial industries such as steel motor vehicles and electronics This book will be of interest to students of urban planning manufacturing and development as well as city planners Planning Theory Robert Burchell,2017-09-04 Theory and practice in city planning have never been known for their compatibility The planner dealing with stresses such as the personalities at work in a board meeting and coping with the realities of fund raising political realities and the like can find little guidance in the theory of the trade The issues of poverty groups whether rural or urban the provision of services and the packaging of them are seemingly insuperable The sheer frustration in the inability to deliver which so many planners feel can result in considerable impatience and a questioning of the relevance of theory The editors argue that this state of affairs though understandable is unacceptable While short range meliorism without sense of perspective may be good for the practitioner s individual psyche the cost may be borne by the long run best interests of the groups to be served The risks of a lack of perspective and the experiences generated by this phenomenon are too serious in their implications to permit the process to continue In this new age of anxiety it is essential for both planners and theorists to understand their roles as well as provide guidance in shaping them Burchell and Sternlieb have thus gathered here a variety of individuals all of whom in their separate and distinct fashions are seasoned both in practice and in theory The book is divided into five sections Physical Planning in Change Social Planning in Change Public Policy Planning in Change Economic Planning in Change and a final section detailing the roles of planners and who they are These shared puzzlements and insights will prove useful to all practitioners and theorists in the planning field

A Contrived Countryside Keith Hoggart, 2021-03-26 This book shows how governance regimes before the 1970s suppressed rural prospects of housing improvement and created conditions for middle class capture Using original archival sources to reveal the intricacies of local and national policy processes weak rural housing performances are shown to owe more to national governance regimes than local under performance Looking behind the scenes at policy processes highlights neglected principles in national governance and shows how investigating rural housing is fundamental to understanding the national scene With original insights and a new analytical perspective this volume offers evidence and conclusions that challenge mainstream assumptions in public policy housing rural studies and planning

Rural Change and Public Policy William P. Avery, Richard E. Lonsdale, Ivan Volgyes, 2013-10-22 Rural Change and Public Policy Eastern Europe Latin America and Australia examines rural change and related public policies in three contrasting areas of the world to identify common problems and gain insight and understanding of the change process This book is organized into five parts encompassing 15 chapters Part I provides a conceptual background useful in examining rural development issues in an international perspective focusing on economic development usually the central question in public policy deliberations on rural areas This part also emphasizes the interdependence between rural and urban areas as well as the importance of rural urban regional inequity considerations Part II deals with the critical role of government in influencing and directing rural change while Part III surveys some of the changing attitudes and attitudinal responses of rural residents experiencing social political educational and or economic change Part IV considers the broad issue of rural workers and employment opportunities a critical issue in rural societies Part V looks into the problems of land utilization and land tenure
