Language Nation And Development In Southeast Asia:

Language, Nation and Development in Southeast Asia Lee Hock Guan, Leo Suryadinata, 2007 Papers from a workshop on Language Nation and Development in Southeast Asia held in Singapore 2003 Workshop on Language, Nation, and Development in Southeast Asia, 26-27 November 2003, Singapore, 2003 Handbook of Home Language Maintenance and Development Andrea C. Schalley, Susana A. Eisenclas, 2020-06-22 Even a cursory look at conference programs and proceedings reveals a burgeoning interest in the field of social and affective factors in home language maintenance and development To date however research on this topic has been published in piecemeal fashion subsumed under the more general umbrella of bilingualism Within bilingualism research there has been an extensive exploration of linguistic and psycholinguistic perspectives on the one hand and educational practices and outcomes on the other In comparison social and affective factors which lead people to either maintain or shift the language have been under researched This is the first volume that brings together the different strands in research on social and affective factors in home language maintenance and development ranging from the micro level family language policies and practices to the meso level community initiatives and the macro level mainstream educational policies and their implementation The volume showcases a wide distribution across contexts and populations explored Contributors from around the world represent different research paradigms and perspectives providing a rounded overview of the state of the art in this flourishing field

Globalising Sociolinguistics Dick Smakman, Patrick Heinrich, 2015-05-15 This book challenges the predominance of mainstream sociolinguistic theories by focusing on lesser known sociolinguistic systems from regions of Africa Asia the Caribbean South America the European Mediterranean and Slavic regions as well as specific speech communities such as those speaking Nivkh Jamaican Creole North Saami and Central Yupik In nineteen chapters the specialist authors look at key sociolinguistic aspects of each region or speech community such as gender politeness strategies speech patterns and the effects of social hierarchy on language concentrating on the differences from mainstream models The volume introduced by Miriam Meyerhoff has been written by the leading expert of each specific region or community and includes contributions by Rajend Mesthrie Marc Greenberg and Daming Xu This publication draws together connections across regions communities and considers how mainstream sociolinguistics is incomplete or lacking It reveals how lesser known cultures can play an important role in the building of theory in sociolinguistics Globalising Sociolinguistics is essential reading for any researcher in sociolinguistics and language variation and will be a key reference for advanced sociolinguistics courses Scripts of Servitude Beatriz P. Lorente, 2017-10-19 This book examines how language is a central resource in transforming migrant women into transnational domestic workers Focusing on the migration of women from the Philippines to Singapore the book unpacks why and how language is embedded in the infrastructure of transnational labor migration that links migrant sending and migrant receiving countries It sheds light on the everyday lives of transnational domestic workers and how they draw on their linguistic repertoires and in particular on English as they cross geographical and social spaces By showing how the transnational mobility of labor is dependent on the selection and performance of particular assemblages of linguistic resources that index migrants as labor and not as people the book provides a powerful lens with which to examine how migration contributes to relationships of inequality and how such inequalities are produced and challenged on the terrain of language

Nationalism, Language, and Muslim Exceptionalism Tristan James Mabry, 2015-02-06 In an era of ethnopolitical conflict and constitutional change worldwide nationalist and Islamist movements are two of the most powerful forces in global politics However the respective roles played by nationalism and Islamism in Muslim separatist movements have until recently been poorly understood The conventional view foregrounds Muslim exceptionalism which suggests that allegiance to the nation of Islam trumps ethnic or national identity But as Tristan James Mabry shows language can be a far more reliable indicator of a Muslim community's commitment to nationalist or Islamist struggles Drawing on fieldwork in Iraq Pakistan India Indonesia and the Philippines Nationalism Language and Muslim Exceptionalism examines and compares the ethnopolitical identity of six Muslim separatist movements There are variations in secularism and ethnonationalism among the cases but the key factor is the presence or absence of a vernacular print culture a social cement that binds a literate population together as a national group Mabry shows that a strong print culture correlates with a strong ethnonational identity and a strong ethnonational identity correlates with a conspicuous absence of Islamism Thus Islamism functions less as an incitement more as an opportunistic pull with greater influence when citizens do not have a strong ethnonational bond An innovative perspective firmly grounded in empirical research Nationalism Language and Muslim Exceptionalism has important implications for scholars and policymakers alike

Educational Issues in Multiethnic Malaysia Tan Yao Sua, R. Santhiram, Education in multiethnic societies is a subject of considerable debates in almost all parts of the world These debates have invoked strongly felt positions between competing ethnic groups over a host of issues that have a profound impact on the nation building process Apart from deep seated issues arising from contrasting internal demands over educational rights and equality emerging issues arising from external influences such as the global spread of English as a result of globalisation have also impacted the nation building process of multiethnic societies. It is against this context that educational issues in multiethnic societies merit our attention. In the case of Malaysia, discourses over these issues are particularly intense and hotly contested by the different ethnic groups. This is primarily because of the extreme difficulties in mediating these complicated issues which are impinged by competing socio-cultural, economic and political interests. This book explores the contested terrains of education in multiethnic Malaysia. It comprises seven chapters that cover three crucial areas of educational provisions and delivery, namely education of ethnic minorities, education and national integration, and educational language policy. These three crucial areas are often the prime concerns of policy makers in multiethnic societies who have to tread a thin line in resolving these issues which are underpinned by intense coterminous interests and inter-ethnic competition and having the potential to generate conflicts, contestation and power struggle. As far as the Malaysian policy makers are concerned, their efforts in resolving these issues have not been overly successful. It is most unfortunate that their policy decisions are at times influenced by competing political and ethnic interests rather than guided by sound theoretical underpinnings that could put the educational development of the country on a stronger platform and a clearer trajectory.

Myanmar's Changing Political Landscape

Makiko Takeda, Chosein Yamahata, 2023-04-05 Myanmar has faced numerous divisions that hinder its democratization and peacebuilding processes since emerging out of decades of military dictatorship. The coup d'état in 2021 terminated Myanmar's limited and nascent democratization under the civilian leadership of the National League for Democracy (NLD). Not only did the coup regime resurface old struggles but also created new ones. Against the backdrop of Myanmar's changing political landscapes from military to quasi-civilian to civilian rule in 2016 and back to military rule in 2021, the book discusses the various forms of interconnected struggles, both old and new. In this process, the contributed chapters come together to highlight the changing dynamics of stakeholders' relations between agents and beneficiaries and the generated evolutionary processes in Myanmar's democratization and its reversal. This book brings an even mix of researchers both within and outside of Myanmar to critically discuss how different agents and their interactions in the form of center-periphery as well as state-non-state relations continuously shape today's political landscape. Its interdisciplinary composition also invites readers from various backgrounds to grasp with engaged research that identifies the various challenges and addresses ways in which to facilitate change from local and international perspectives.

Health and Development

Iris Borowy, Bernard Harris, 2023-01-30 Health and development require one another; there can be no development without a critical mass of people who are sufficiently healthy to do whatever it takes for development to occur, and people cannot be healthy without societal developments that enable standards of health to be maintained or improved. However, the ways in which health and development interact are complex and contested. This volume unites eleven case studies from nine countries in three continents and two international organizations since the late nineteenth century. Collectively, they show how different actors have struggled to reconcile the sometimes contradictory nature of health and development policies and the subordination of these policies to a range of political objectives

English as a Lingua Franca in ASEAN Andy Kirkpatrick, 2010-09-01 The lingua franca role of English coupled with its status as the official language of ASEAN has important implications for language policy and language education These include the relationship between English the respective national languages of ASEAN and thousands of local languages How can the demand for English be balanced against the need for people to acquire their national language and mother tongue While many will also need a regional lingua franca they are learning English as the first foreign language from primary school in all ASEAN countries Might not this early introduction of English threaten local languages and children's ability to learn Or can English be introduced and taught in such a way that it can complement local languages rather than replace them The aim of this book is to explore questions such as these and then make recommendations on language policy and language education for regional policymakers The book will be important for regional policymakers and language education professionals It should also benefit language teachers especially but by no means exclusively English language teachers The book will be of interest to all who are interested in the development of English as an international language and the possible implications of this upon local languages and cultures Andy Kirkpatrick is chair professor of English as an international language at the Hong Kong Institute of Education and director of the Institute's Research Centre into Language Education and Acquisition in Multilingual Societies His research interests include the development of regional varieties of English and the history of Chinese rhetoric Much research has been carried out on varieties of English used in Southeast Asia but how intelligible these varieties are to others and whether a shift towards an international standard variety occurs in interactions between people from the region has been much less discussed This volume which provides a comprehensive account of the roles and functions of English in ASEAN and gives a linguistic description of the English spoken in the region followed by an approach to teaching English called the multilingual model is therefore a welcome contribution to studies on English in Asia

Perspectives on Traditional Settlements and Communities Bagoes Wiryomartono, 2014-02-18 This book covers the relationship between societies and their culture in the context of traditional settlement in Indonesia The focus of the study is on the search for meanings of local concepts This study reveals and analyzes the concepts concerning home and their sociocultural strategies for maintaining a sense of community and identity In this study identifying local concepts becomes the hallmark and the hub of analyses that explore verify and establish relations between ideas and phenomena Based on these relations this study attempts to capture the reality of the local world that upholds and sustains the communities values norms and principles for what they may call a homeland The book is organized into two parts Part I describes a cross regional habitation in Indonesia while Part II presents four ethnic regions of Indonesia Sa dan Toraja Bali Naga and Minangkabau Their unique traditions customs beliefs and attitudes serve to provide diversity in terms of their backgrounds and lifestyles though they share the challenge of sustaining their sense of home in the face of modernity as characterized by changes and developments toward a technologically industrialized society The central research questions are What is development in terms of culture and environmental sustainability How do these communities respond to modernity English as an International Language in Asia: Implications for Language Education Roland Sussex, 2012-07-10 Noting ASEAN's adoption of English as its sole working language this book analyzes the language education policies of Vietnam Malaysia Indonesia Japan Sri Lanka and China and traces the influence of globalization on English language education in Asia Language, Education and Nation-building P. Sercombe, R. Tupas, 2014-09-02 This volume tracks the complex relationships between language education and nation building in Southeast Asia focusing on how language policies have been used by states and governments as instruments of control assimilation and empowerment Leading scholars have contributed chapters each representing one of the countries in the region Language Policy in Superdiverse Indonesia Subhan Zein, 2020-02-03 Indonesia has an extreme diversity of linguistic wealth with 707 languages by one count or 731 languages and more than 1 100 dialects in another estimate spoken by more than 600 ethnicities spread across 17 504 islands in the archipelago Smaller locally used indigenous languages jostle for survival alongside Indonesian which is the national language regional lingua francas major indigenous languages heritage languages sign languages and world languages such as English Arabic and Mandarin not to mention emerging linguistic varieties and practices of language mixing How does the government manage these languages in different domains such as education the media the workplace and the public while balancing concerns over language endangerment and the need for participation in the global community Subhan Zein asserts that superdiversity is the key to understanding and assessing these intricate issues and their complicated contested and innovative responses in the complex dynamic and polycentric sociolinguistic situation in Indonesia that he conceptualises as superglossia This offers an opportunity for us to delve more deeply into such a context through the language and superdiversity perspective that is in ascendancy Zein examines emerging themes that have been dominating language policy discourse including status prestige corpus acquisition cultivation language shift and endangerment revitalisation linguistic genocide and imperialism multilingual education personnel policy translanguaging family language policy and global English These topical areas are critically discussed in an integrated manner against Indonesia's elaborate socio cultural political and religious backdrop as well as the implementation of regional autonomy In doing so Zein identifies strategies for language policy to help inform scholarship and policymaking while providing a frame of reference for the adoption of the superdiversity perspective on polity specific language policy in other parts of the world The Future of English in Asia Michael O'Sullivan, David Huddart, Carmen Lee, 2015-10-05 This collection is unique in bringing together key thinkers on language and literature to discuss the future of English in Asia Many of the contributors are themselves responsible for important sub genres in English linguistics and literary studies and this collection gives them the opportunity to respond to each other directly The different chapters also respond to different contemporary debates and emerging trends and discourses that are hugely important for the future of English language teaching in schools across Asia This volume is also ground breaking in bringing English literary studies and Applied English Linguistics together in the contemporary Asian context The Future of English in Asia includes studies on the following subject areas Cultural Translation in World Englishes Multilingual Education English Futures and the function of Literature English Literary Studies in Japan and English and Social Media in Asia Well into this century it appears that it is still very difficult to know what to expect when it comes to the future of English The future of English will continue to be determined by complex local contexts As it has in other parts of the world the future of English in Asia will continue to rely on the proliferation of its transformations as much as its hegemonic status This volume reflects the widespread acknowledgement that whatever future English has will inevitably be shaped by its fate in Asia The collection will be a welcome resource for scholars and students of English linguistics English literary studies and topics related to the teaching of English in Asia Catalogue Institute of Southeast Asian Studies,2008
