Howitzer Motor Carriage M7 Priest Field Manual: FM 6-74 War Department, 2013-09 The 105 mm Howitzer Motor Carriage M7 was an American self propelled artillery vehicle produced during World War II It was called the Priest by the British Army due to the pulpit like machine gun ring The first M7s produced were modified M3 Lee medium tanks The M7 went through a fairly rapid shift from being based on the M3 to having more in common with the M4 Sherman The first major example was an adoption of the M4's three piece housing single piece casting and suspension In British service some M7s

carried a radio set which took the place of twenty four rounds of ammunition In U S service the M7 was a resounding success During the Battle of the Bulge each U S armored division had three battalions of M7s giving them unmatched mobile artillery support A total of 3 490 M7s were built and they proved to be reliable continuing to see service in the U S and allied armies well past World War II Created in 1944 this field manual reveals a great deal about the Priest s design and capabilities The manual prescribes the duties to be performed in the service of the M7 by firing battery personnel Originally labeled restricted this manual was declassified long ago and is here reprinted in book form Care has been taken to preserve the integrity of the text

M7 Priest David Doyle,2018-12 The M7 Howitzer Motor Carriage dubbed the Priest was the most successful and widely used example of American self propelled artillery during WWII Examples continued to be used by the U S Army during the Korean war and beyond even serving Allied countries into the 1970s Coined the Priest due to its pulpit like structure for the gun commander this armored fighting vehicle would see action in North Africa Italy and the D Day landings in Normandy and all the way to Germany
