DHCP for Windows 2000 Neall Alcott,2001-01-26 Dynamic Host Configuration Protocol DHCP is an open standard Internet protocol used to allocate and manage IP addresses dynamically Before DHCP came along administrators had to manually configure each host on a network with an IP address subnet mask and default gateway Maintaining the changes and the associated logs took a tremendous amount of time and was prone to error DHCP uses a client server model in which the system updates and maintains the network information dynamically Windows 2000 provides enhanced DHCP client server support DHCP for Windows 2000 is custom designed for system administrators who are responsible for configuring and maintaining networks with Windows 2000 servers It explains the DHCP protocol and how to install and manage DHCP on both servers and clients including client platforms other than Windows 2000 Readers get detailed and explicit instructions for using Windows 2000 DHCP to manage their network IP configurations much more efficiently and effectively They get background information for using DHCP in general plus complete information about the Windows 2000 use of DHCP For those interested in what s on the horizon the author steps up to the plate with an analysis of the future direction of DHCP and Windows support for IPv6

IP Address Management Timothy Rooney,2011-04-20 This book will be the first covering the subject of IP address management IPAM The practice of IPAM includes the application of network management disciplines to IP address space and associated network services namely DHCP Dynamic Host Configuration Protocol and DNS Domain Name System The consequence of inaccurately configuring DHCP is that end users may not be able to obtain IP addresses to access the network Without proper DNS configuration usability of the network will greatly suffer as the name to address lookup process may fail Imagine having to navigate to a website or send an email or an instant message by IP address instead of by name It s equally important that these DHCP and DNS configurations be based on a common IP address plan which maps out the IP address hierarchy subnets address pools and domains IPAM applies management disciplines to these core services including configuration change control auditing reporting and so on and they are necessary given the absolute requirement for properly managing IP space and DHCP and DNS servers The linkages among an IP address plan DHCP server configuration and DNS server configuration are inseparable a change of an IP address will affect DNS information and perhaps DHCP as well These functions provide the foundation for today s converged services IP networks so they need to be managed using a rigorous approach Today there is no single book that covers the management of these linkages and services they provide IP Address Management Principles and Practice will fill that gap While several books are available for leading vendors DHCP and DNS services implementations few exist for IP address planning and none exist that unifies these three topics To obtain a free copy of the IPAM Configuration Guide please send an email to ieeeproposals@wiley.com
