Lights Cubicle Action 100 Directives For Survival In Corporate America:

Lights, Cubicle, Action! A. A. Cantor, 2003-01 Lights Cubicle Action 100 Directives for Survival in Corporate America is the first in a series of three books uncharacteristically shining light on life's fiction. Lights is a Bible for every cubicle in America capturing the essence of corporate reality with a humorous yet insightful display of original business anti-quotes. Lights is truly unique. No other self-help business book would boldly state: People who work really, really hard are often viewed as underachievers. What self-help books most inspire is the bank account of the author. There is a lot of good wisdom in this book. Jack Canfield Co. Author Chicken Soup for the Soul and The Power of Focus. A cutting-edge work that propels readers past the typical motivational hype and hoopla. Lights quotes delve into every area of business: job satisfaction, money, processes, excellence, power, ideas, and success. They leave no corporate stone unturned. An entertaining paragraph accompanies each quote for a quick and powerful read. One page, one quote. They're biting, sticky, and dead-on accurate. These truths are too often thought but rarely discussed. Now they can be. As it refreshingly states in Lights: Attitude is nice, but 99% of all problems need action, and not attitude, to be solved. Many of the quotes already appear in corporate articles around the country where author Anthony Cantor uses his same humorous and provocative style as found in Lights. Now they are synthesized into one easy-to-read publication. While other inspirational and self-help works shoot motivational static through your veins, Lights Cubicle Action grips you uniquely. Through its anti-quotes, you'll see the glossy ideology of corporate life stripped clean, leaving you at center stage with the edge to see business more clearly. Commerce Business Daily
