Going To Meet The Man James Baldwin, 2013-11-28 Everyone's life begins on a level where races armies and churches stop And yet everyone's life is always shaped by races churches and armies In these eight extraordinary stories of love conflict desperation and fear James Baldwin shows people trapped by the roles they must play in society and those who try and escape them From the child in The Rockpile whose God fearing father will not forgive his illegitimacy to the adolescent who hides his sexuality from his community in The Outing and from the down and out jazz pianist recovering from addiction in Sonny's Blues to the chilling initiation of a racist in Going to Meet the Man these tales first published in 1965 explore the subtle and profound wounds that discrimination leaves both in its victims and its perpetrators He uses words as the sea uses waves Langston Hughes Few it seems to me have driven their words with such passion Guardian Everybody's Magazine these eight short fictions grasp this truth on an elemental level and their stories as told by James Baldwin detail the ingenious and often desperate ways in which they try to keep their head above water It may be the heroin that a down and out jazz pianist uses to face the terror of pouring his life into an inanimate instrument It may be the brittle piety of a father who can never forgive his son for his illegitimacy Or it may be the screen of bigotry that a redneck deputy has raised to blunt the awful childhood memory of the day his parents took him to watch a black man being murdered by a gleeful mob By turns haunting heartbreaking and horrifying and informed throughout by Baldwin s uncanny knowledge of the wounds racism has
