Heroic Option The Irish In The British Army:

Heroic Option Desmond Bowen, Jean Bowen, 2005-01-01 It is a curious paradox that while for many centuries there has been deep antagonism between the British and the Irish the latter have fought the former's wars with exemplary courage and tenacity This has never been better demonstrated than when as a result of the Irish regiments superb service in the South African War Boer War at the end of the 19th Century Queen Victoria ordered the formation of the Irish Guards in 1900 as a mark of the Nation's gratitude Even after the trauma of Partition Irishmen continued to serve in Irish regiments in large numbers and the tradition continued today Indeed during the Second World War a very significant number of the most influential generals were of Irish extraction

The Impact of World War One on Limerick Tadhg Moloney, 2014-03-26 This book examines the impact of World War One on the people of Limerick It traces how recruitment which was weak at the commencement of the war increased locally after the leader of the Irish Parliamentary Party John Redmond issued his call for Irish nationalists and others to enlist and as the war progressed how Sinn F in separatists impinged on recruiting efforts It also shows that the British War Office were unwitting contributors to the separatists cause by their ill conceived actions that only assisted them in their political cause and anti recruiting campaign The book also tracks how the separatists gained considerably in both military and political strength locally through the inept policies that changed public support for the war effort thereby paving the way for the Sinn F in victory in the General Election of December 1918 thus giving credence to the author and poet Robert Graves description that Limerick had become a Sinn F in ridden town Further to this it demonstrates that despite the best efforts of local capitalists to procure war work contracted out by the British War Office only very little was achieved the War Office ensuring that the vast array of such work was to remain in Britain Some local capitalists did of course gain as a result of the war these were notably those such as merchants and farmers who were in a position to provide Britain and her army with all the foodstuffs that she required Those on low incomes namely the working class who also provided the majority of recruits for the armed forces were to suffer through the ever increasing price rises This book therefore reveals a complex scene where social and political alignments reflect much of what was happening nationally but also had uniquely local characteristics
