Mad To Be Saved The Beats The 50s And Film:

Mad to be Saved David Sterritt, 1998 Film critic David Sterritt presents an interdisciplinary exploration of the Beat Generation its intersections with main stream and experimental film and the interactions of all of these with American society and the culture of the 1950s Sterritt balances the Beat countercultural goal of rebellion through both artistic creation and everyday behavior against the mainstream values of conformity and conservatism growing worry over cold war hostilities and the rat race toward material success After an introductory overview of the Beat Generation its history its antecedents and its influences Sterritt shows the importance of visual thinking in the lives and works of major Beat authors most notably Jack Kerouac Allen Ginsberg and William S Burroughs He turns to Mikhail Bakhtin's dialogic theory to portray the Beat writers who were inspired by jazz and other liberating influences as carnivalesque rebels against what they perceived as a rigid and stifling social order Showing the Beats as social critics Sterritt looks at the work of 1950s photographers Robert Frank and William Klein the attack against Beat culture in the pictures and prose of Life magazine and the counterattack in Frank's film Pull My Daisy featuring key Beat personalities He further explores expressions of rebelliousness in film noir the melodramas of director Douglas Sirk and other Hollywood films Finally Sterritt shows the changing attitudes toward the Beat sensibility in Beat related Hollywood movies like A Bucket of Blood and The Beat Generation television programs like Route 66 and The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis nonstudio films like John Cassavetes's improvisational Shadows and Shirley Clarke's experimental The Connection and radically avant garde works by such doggedly independent screen artists as Stan Brakhage Ron Rice Bruce Connor and Ken Jacobs drawing connections between their achievements and the most subversive products of their Beat contemporaries

Rock 'n' Roll Movies David Sterritt, 2017-12-18 Rock n Roll Movies presents an eclectic look at the many manifestations of rock in motion pictures from teen oriented B movies to Hollywood blockbusters to avant garde meditations to reverent biopics to animated shorts to performance documentaries Acclaimed film critic David Sterritt considers the diverse ways that filmmakers have regarded rock n roll some cynically cashing in on its popularity and others responding to the music as sincere fans some depicting rock as harmless fun and others representing it as an open challenge to mainstream norms the boy man and his habits examining the attitudes and practices of three generations to make sense of this gradual but profound shift in American masculinity Cross matches the rise of the American boy man to trends in twentieth century advertising popular culture and consumerism and he locates the roots of our present crisis in the vague call for a new model of leadership that ultimately failed to offer a better concept of maturity Cross does not blame the young or glorify the past He finds that men of the Greatest Generation might have embraced their role as providers but were confused by the contradictions and expectations of modern fatherhood Their uncertainty gave birth to the Beats and men who indulged in childhood hobbies and boyish sports Rather than fashion a new manhood baby boomers held onto their youth and when that was gone embraced Viagra Without mature role models to emulate or rebel against Generation X turned to cynicism and sensual intensity and the media fed on this longing transforming a life stage into a highly desirable lifestyle Arguing that contemporary American culture undermines both conservative ideals of male maturity and the liberal values of community and responsibility Cross concludes with a proposal for a modern marriage of personal desire and ethical adulthood
