BY RICHARD E. SMITH AND J. W. MOORE

Abstract. A discrete-time system is said to be neutral if it is both controllable and observable. This paper studies the problem of neutralizing a discrete-time system which is not both controllable and observable. A method is proposed for the neutralization of a discrete-time system which is not both controllable and observable. The method involves the construction of a neutralizing system which is both controllable and observable. The neutralizing system is then added to the original system to produce a neutral system.
