participatory theater with marginalized groups in cities around the world Perspectives on Fair Housing Vincent J. Reina, Wendell E. Pritchett, Susan M. Wachter, 2020-11-20 Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968 known as the Fair Housing Act prohibited discrimination in the sale rent and financing of housing based on race religion and national origin However manifold historical and contemporary forces driven by both governmental and private actors have segregated these protected classes by denying them access to homeownership or housing options in high performing neighborhoods Perspectives on Fair Housing argues that meaningful government intervention continues to be required in order to achieve a housing market in which a person s background does not arbitrarily restrict access The essays in this volume address how residential segregation did not emerge naturally from minority preference but rather how it was forced through legal economic social and even violent measures Contributors examine racial land use and zoning practices in the early 1900s in cities like Atlanta Richmond and Baltimore the exclusionary effects of single family zoning and its entanglement with racially motivated barriers to obtaining credit and the continuing impact of mid century redlining policies and practices on public and private investment levels in neighborhoods across American cities today Perspectives on Fair Housing demonstrates that discrimination in the housing market results in unequal minority households that in aggregate diminish economic prosperity across the country Amended several times to expand the protected classes to include gender families with children and people with disabilities the FHA s power relies entirely on its consistent enforcement and on programs that further its goals Perspectives on Fair Housing provides historical sociological economic and legal perspectives on the critical and continuing problem of housing discrimination and offers a review of the tools that if appropriately supported can promote racial and economic equity in America Contributors Francesca Russello Ammon Raphael Bostic Devin Michelle Bunten Camille Zubrinsky Charles Nestor M Davidson Amy Hillier Marc H Morial Eduardo M Pe alver Wendell E Pritchett Rand Quinn Vincent J Reina Akira Drake Rodriguez Justin P Steil Susan M Wachter HIV/AIDS Jacquelyn Haak Flaskerud, Peter J. The Problem with Parenting Nancy A. McDermott, 2020-08-24 The Problem with Parenting serves as an essential guide to the recent origins and current excesses of American parenting for students parents and policy makers interested in the changing role of the family in childrearing Family scholarship focuses predominately on the evolution of family structure and function with only passing references to parenting Researchers who study parenting however invariably regard it as a sociological phenomenon with complex motivations rooted in such factors as class economic instability and new technologies. This book examines the relationship between changes to the family and the emergence of parenting defined here as a specific mode of childrearing. It shows how beginning in the 1970s the family was transformed from a social unit that functioned as the primary institution for raising children into a vehicle for the nurturing and fulfillment of the self. The book pays special attention to socialization and describes how the change in our understanding of parenthood from a state of being into the distinct activity of parenting is indicative of a disruption of our ability to transfer key cultural values and norms from one generation to the next.

Pastoral Bearings Mary Clark Moschella, Jane F. Maynard, Leonard Hummel, 2010-03-18. The study of lived religion is an enterprise which attempts to elucidate how ordinary men and women in all times and places draw on religious behavior, media, and meanings to make sense of themselves and their world. Through the influence of liberation theology and postmodernism, pastoral theologians like other scholars of religion have begun more closely to examine the particularity of religious practice that is reflected through the rubric of lived religion. Pastoral Bearings offers up ten studies that exemplify the usefulness of the lived religion paradigm to the field of pastoral theology. The volume presents detailed qualitative research focused on the everyday beliefs and practices of individuals and groups and explores the implications of lived religion for interdisciplinary conversation, intercultural and gender analysis, and congregational studies. Reflecting upon the utility of this approach for pastoral theological research, education, and pastoral care, the studies collected in Pastoral Bearings demonstrate the importance of the study of lived religion.

Youths Living with HIV G. Cajetan Luna, 2014-02-04. In this enlightening book you will explore the life struggles and adaptations leading up to and following HIV infection in young Americans. The cases presented in Youths Living with HIV envisage a variety of experiences of youths living with HIV and AIDS, including individuals of different races, of each gender, and of different sexual preferences. This discussion of the private troubles and experiences of youths helps you understand and identify dependent and larger public issues surrounding HIV infection and AIDS and demonstrates the need for comprehensive and targeted intervention and preventive measures. This book is the result of the first federally funded multi-site study to research, develop, and provide HIV education and prevention specifically to young Americans. Detailed narrative descriptions were collected by ethnographers of the Joven Project, which started in October 1992 and explored and documented the lives of youths living with HIV and AIDS over a two-year period. This ethnographic exploratory study was one component of a larger National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA) supported Secondary AIDS Education and Prevention Program. Youths Living with HIV reconstructs the past and present struggles that young people living with HIV and AIDS face, employing qualitative field interviews. Larger and interrelated developmental, social, cultural, and political factors are also illustrated and discussed. As you read through the chapters, you will gain insight into youth development, coming of age, sexual development, and risk-taking behaviors, gay development and activity, coming out, establishing relationships, and power imbalanced cross-generational relationships, self-harmful behaviors, drug use, sex, and poverty notification and reaction to infection impression management and disclosure of infection status adaptation to HIV status and necessary life changes sexual activity and relationships after infection social worlds and support networks pathological or destructive networks availability and success of existing AIDS related services future orientation and life expectations Whether you re a counselor teacher policymaker physician mental health professional social worker or advocate who specializes in or focus on youth development gay youths field methodology qualitative research public health women s health drug use sex work and or AIDS you will find Youths Living with HIV essential to understanding and helping this affected population Resources in Education ,1998 Essentials of Health Behavior Mark Cameron Edberg,2007 Health Behavior Education Promotion The FBI Story United States.
